CITY BUDGET MAY PERMIT TAX CUT

Mayor Kline Submits 1931 Estimate, $140,500 Over Amount Needed Year Ago

An increase of $140,500 over the 1930 budget is shown in the departmental estimate for 1931 submitted to Council today by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

The total recommended for next year is $27,816,012, compared with $27,675,564 appropriated by Council for 1930.

The amount requested can be granted without increase over the present tax levy of 26 mills on land and 13 mills on buildings, the Mayor told Council in his letter. He pointed out an expected increase of $10,000,000 in valuation.

REDUCTION POSSIBLE

He added that the levy may be reduced somewhat by the release of $500,000 through the ordinance requiring banks to give bonds to safeguard city deposits, or if the year closes with a larger cash balance than is now anticipated.

This depository aordinance, which came up for final action in Council this afternoon, was referred to committee for technical amendments. Members of Council predicted its passage after the amendments are made. These amendments, it is said, concern bond specification, method of holding and limiting varieties.

The Mayor in his letter held out little hope of the latter contingency, saying that present estimates indicate that there may be a slight deficit. Last year there was a cash balance of $300,000, but this was included when the budget was made at that time.

The budget transmitted by the Mayor today shows that the in...

GRACE IN CITY ON MERGER

Rumors of a big steel merger including the acquisition of the McClintic-Marshall Company by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation assumed more definite form today when three Bethlehem officials arrived in Pittsburgh.

Business of great importance was reported being considered in the office of the McClintic-Marshall Company. H. H. McClintic, Sr., was in conference all morning and refused to be interviewed.

Jobs for Hundreds In Railroad Program

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Immediate additional expenditures involving more than $2,000,000 for locomotives, bridge and station construction will be made by the Reading Railway System, Agnew T. Dice, president of the railroad, announced.

The contracts will insure employment throughout the winter for several hundred men.

SECOND COLD SPELL HERE; ONE DEAD

Temperature Begins Drop With Snow Flurries and Wind; Low of 15 Seen

One man was reported dead from exposure today as snow flurries, accompanied by a 30-mile wind, ushered in a new cold wave that was to topple the mercury to between 10 and 15 by tomorrow morning.

Henry Boggs, 45, of Brodhead road, Coraopolis Heights, was found dead today in a ditch near his home. He had been missing since yesterday, when he went to his garage some distance from his home.

The thermometer had fallen from 33 at noon to 25 at 3 p. m., with prospect of a slow steady decline supplanting yesterday's mild spell and sprink-like rain.

A driving shower last night cleaned the streets and highways, and brought the total precipitation for the 24 hours to .31 inch.

The lowest temperatures of the season were reported from the Northwest today, some points in North Dakota recording 18 degrees below zero.

Skies will clear tomorrow as the cold spell continues, the Weather Bureau predicted. The mercury, which stood at 33 this morning, was expected to begin falling rapidly this evening.

Mrs. Marie Aurion, 43, of 3208 Willet road was treated at the South Side Hospital for injuries suffered when she slipped and fell while crossing Carey way and South Twenty-seventh street, according to a police report.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Falling temperatures today marked the Midwest's obeisance to the visitation of a new cold wave after a brief respite Sunday.

Below-zero temperatures in Minnesota and in North Dakota last night signaled the beginning of the march of cold weather which was expected to bring temperatures down to 10 above in Chicago and vicinity by nightfall.

Cheer If You Can't March in Buying Parade

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Christmas shopping has started. That means business.

Business means prosperity. That's all we wanted to know.

Sure we're optimistic. In another three weeks we will see all the pessimists laughing in their crying towels.

A pessimist is a man who thinks that anybody can grab a big, fat bribe.

An optimist hopes it's true.

An optimist doesn't care what happens so long as it doesn't happen to him.

When a pessimist is up against a blank wall that's all there is to it. He's against a blank wall.

When an optimist gets up against a blank wall he paints an ad there.

Some grouches might ask what's the use of being an optimist and not getting to first base?

That's better than being a pessimist and not even getting into the ball park.

Don't holler wolf. There's enough people in the fur business now.

If you can't sell apples don't yell lemons.

WORKMEN REMOVING DEBRIS AFTER 20 TONS OF EARTH AND ROCKS CRASHED DOWN AT MT. WASHINGTON TUNNEL

Where earth and rocks dislodged on the hillside slide within a few feet of the entrance to the Mt. Washington street car tunnel and Sycamore and Smithfield streets, South Side. Notice how the street was blocked by the debris at the bottom of the hill.

EARTH SLIDES NEAR TUNNEL

Dislodged from the hillside near the entrance of the Mt. Washington tunnel, about 20 tons of earth and rocks rolled down at Sycamore and Smithfield streets, to within a few feet of the street car tracks yesterday. Earth and rocks also slipped from the hill onto the Mt. Washington roadway, which was cleared a short time later by city workmen.

The brick and stone cornice of a building at 202-04-06 Elizabeth street collapsed and fell to the street last night. Firemen who cleared the debris estimated damage at $1,500.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Lorber's, one of the landmarks of Broadway, has closed its doors after 20 years. Adolf Lorber came from Germany with 50 cents in his pocket, and eventually had an elaborate eating place opposite the Metropolitan Opera House.

CRIME GROWS IN CITY

Despite extraordinary measures taken by police and detective heads to curb the usual crime wave, banditry here ran at high tide during November, showing an increase of 30 per cent over the preceding month.

As the figures were made public today, Public Safety Director James M. Clark was awaiting the Mayor's reply to his request for 350 additional policemen to fill every vacant beat in the city, and to create additional patrol squads.

In an effort to break the crime wave, Police Supt. P. P. Walsh announced that beginning tomorrow a change in hours would be effective for the 1,200 patrolmen of the city. Night men will report at 10 p. m. and remain on duty until 7 a. m.; early men from 4 a. m. to 1 p. m. and day men from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. The shift is an hour later than former hours.

Under the head of general crime, which includes holdups, entering buildings, housebreaking, swindling and pocket picking, 320 cases were reported to police during November.

Four murders were committed during November as compared to three in October. There were 400 automobiles stolen as against 380 in October.

Inspector of Detectives Frank Boyd has detailed a squad of detectives to each precinct to supplement the regular force.

Holds Hearings Not Knowing of Mother's Death

Soon after arriving this morning from Chicago, where he attended the Army-Notre Dame football game Saturday, Magistrate James J. O'Connor conducted hearings at Oakland Police Station, unaware that his mother had died suddenly.

His mother, Mrs. Jessie O'Connor, 85, was found dead in bed at her home, 5802 Kirkwood street. Physicians reported that heart failure due to age was the probable cause. The magistrate learned of her death after he had concluded the hearings.

CAPONE ELUDES RAIDING POLICE

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Alfonse Capone, No. 1 on Chicago's list of "public enemies," still was free today after apparently playing a game of hide-and-seek with authorities, in which they believed they were only one or two jumps behind him.

The gangster was sought in raids on five places, all supposed to be his secret hide-outs, but was not found, although the raiders, led by Municipal Judge John H. Lyle and Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, found evidence that their quarry was not far ahead of them.

DRY REPEALERS INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—The anti-drys started their drive for repeal and modification promptly with opening of Congress today.

Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, proposed an entirely new scheme designed to bring the important prohibition question before the people themselves for settlement. He introduced a bill calling for first, a constitutional convention; second, a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment; third, a direct amendment permitting sale of light alcoholic beverages.

Another referendum proposal, already announced by Representative Andrew (Rep.), of Massachusetts, was introduced. A [illegible] of other bills calling for repeal or modification were expected to follow.

School Girl Goes Gunning For Cameron, Film Actor

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A girl with red hair "went gunning" for Rudolph Cameron, movie actor, today, but her pistol dropped out of her handbag in a taxicab and the frightened chauffeur had her arrested.

Ten days ago Cameron, former husband of Anita Stewart, summoned police to his hotel room to eject the girl, Lucille Lavelle. She turned the tables by preferring a charge against the actor, but he was released when she withdrew the complaint.

The fashionably dressed young woman told police today that she visited a friend, saw a pistol, "and thought it would be a good idea to go gunning for Cameron." As she entered the taxicab the pistol dropped on the floor. She picked it up and the driver took to his heels. Miss Lavelle laughed:

"It was funny to see him run."

She said she was a student at a school at Highland Falls, N. Y.

THE LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS

By Quin Hall

DENMARK FIRST OFFERED SEALS

Tracing the history of the sale of Christmas seals for charity, it was found today that the custom originated in Denmark, in 1904.

There Einar Holboell, a Copenhagen postoffice employe, secured royal permission to launch a seal sale to raise money for a tuberculosis sanitorium for children.

Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Del., adopted the idea in this country in 1907, when she read of the Danish custom in a magazine article by Jacob Riis, New York social worker, who had received a letter bearing one of the foreign stamps. Miss Bissell netted $3,000 for a tuberculosis sanitorium she was establishing from this first sale.

Taken up by the American Red Cross and, in 1910, jointly by that organization and the National Tuberculosis Association, the Tuberculosis Association has used the plan exclusively since 1920. In Pittsburgh, the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh handles sale of Tuberculosis Seals through the mails, booths in commercial houses and direct sale from the league's office.

'DICTATORSHIP' FOR GERMANY

International News Service.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Democracy was suspended temporarily in Germany today when President Paul Von Hindenburg and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening decided to promulgate as a semi-dictatorial degree 25 financial reform laws under paragraph 48 of the German constitution.

Decision to invoke the "dictatorship" paragraph of the constitution was reached after a lengthy conference between the president and his chancellor, during which they found that all hope of parliamentary agreement on the measures when the Reichstag meets Wednesday is gone.

The laws will become effective tomorrow, and will be submitted to the Reichstag on Wednesday as a matter of form.

School Burns Near Enola; Loss $4,200

ENOLA, Pa., Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Forty pupils of Hamden Township today were without classrooms following a fire which last night destroyed Shaull's School, west of here. Loss is estimated at $4,200.

The blaze, it was believed, started from an overheated stove in which a pupil each Sunday night lit a fire so the schoolhouse would be warm Monday mornings.

Two Mothers, 4 Children Evicted Into Cold

Two mothers and their four children—destitute and hungry—were evicted by deputy sheriffs today into the bitter cold from their three-room tenement at 1317 East street for nonpayment of rent.

Officers came to the house and asked Mrs. Bessie McCord, 39, her daughter, Mrs. Varina Monday, 22, and their four children to leave. Furniture was then carried into the street. The eviction was ordered by H. Steinmeyer, of 718 East Diamond street, the landlord. Steinmeyer said he was owed $60 representing rent at $20 monthly.

Loretta, 10, and Earl, 9, children of Mrs. McCord, and Elmer, 4, and Loretta, 2, children of Mrs. Monday, had no place to stay until neighbors and welfare organizations came to their temporary rescue.

George McCord, 46, husband of Mrs. McCord, has been in poor health for several months, she said.

The only income the two families has had for the past several months has been a few dollars weekly earned by Mrs. Monday, who does scrub work at the Daniel Webster Public School, Reedsdale street.

Mrs. Margaret Patton, of 1224 Sandusky street, mother of Mrs. McCord, will care for the evicted families tonight.

AIDES WITH GRACE

Accompany Mr. Grace to Pittsburgh were F. A. Shick, controller of Bethlehem Steel, and R. E. McMath, secretary. They arrived early this morning in their private car "Bethlehem" at he Pennsylvania station.

Numerous reports have been heard in the last month that Bethlehem Steel is negotiating to acquire several structural steel fabricating companies. The organization understood to be considering a merger with Bethlehem are McClintic-Marshall, Hay Foundry and Iron Company and the Harris Structural Steel Company.

MAY ENTER DISTRICT

Acquisition of the McClintic-Marshall would be the first direct entrance of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation into the Pittsburgh district. The nearest plant now controlled by the Bethlehem is at Johnstown, Pa.

Bethlehem will also obtain production in the Youngstown and Chicago districts if the merger with Youngstown Sheet and Tube, now being delayed with litigation by the Eaton interests of Cleveland, is completed.

PITTSBURGHERS TO PUSH PLAN FOR CANAL

Proposal to Be Placed Before Rivers Congress; Meeting Of Backers Tomorrow

Plans for bringing the Ohio River-Lake Erie Canal project to the attention of the Rivers and Harbors Congress in Washington December 9 and 10 will be outlined at a meeting of local proponents of the proposal tomorrow noon in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, James Rae, president of the chamber, will preside.

It is hoped to enlist a large Pittsburgh delegation to go to Washington to present the canal project. James Francis Burke is expected to place the project before the congress.

ASKS PITTSBURGH FUND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Plans of the War Department for spending $4,406,000 in improvements on the Ohio River system during the coming fiscal year, beginning July 1, were revealed today by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of the Army board of engineers.

In his anual report to Congress, submitted at the opening of the session, Gen. Brown recommended that $1,000,000 be applied to the construction of new Lock and Dam No. 4 on the Monongahela River, with an additional $936,500 to be spent on the Allegheny in the remaining work at Lock No. 8, and part construction of a standard lock at Dam No. 2.

TERMINAL PLAN FAVORED

Other items on the Ohio River improvement call for an expenditure of $1,000,000 in lock and dam construction on the Ohio River, $570,000 for open chanel work on the Ohio, and $900,000 for improvement of the Kanawha River.

The usual expenditures for maintenance of the Ohio system, amounting to more than $1,700,000, were recommended.

For years it had been customary for the chief of engineers to speak regretfully of river terminal facilities at Pittsburgh. This attitude was modified in Gen. Brown's report when he said:

"The City of Pittsburgh contemplates the early construction of an adequate terminal with ample facilities for river-to-rail and rail-to-river transfer of freight and general use."

Gen. Brown told Congress the expenditure incident to extending the slack water system at Pittsburgh was justified through the progressively - increased tonnage and ton mileage in recent years. Despite the industrial depression, the shipments from steel mills near Pittsburgh, he said, and at Portsmouth, O., to lower Ohio and Mississipi rose 327,000 tons in 1929. Upbound shipments of gasoline and oil also showed an increase.

Rising Temperature Breaks Allegheny Ice

Coolidge Views Result Of General 5-Day Week

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 1.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

The problems of the wage earner would be simplified by remembering he works not for money, but for goods and services. Wages come out of production. The employer cannot get them permanently out of any other source. Wages are raised or lowered with production.

Calvin Coolidge

Suppose all of us worked to build and maintain our own house and each room represented one day's work each week. A six-day week supplies a six-room house and five days supply five rooms.

If everybody immediately went on a five-day week with no decrease in the weekly money wage everybody would soon find the pay for a week would give only five rooms. The cost of the goods and services necessary to produce the rooms would increase as much as the work decreased. A national five-day week with or without reduction of pay would leave everybody practically with five rooms instead of six. If we are not content with the six-room standard we cannot get more by decreasing hours, but by working more or by using machinery that increases production. The five-day week for everyone is ultimately a question of living on a five or six-room standard.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

WILLIAM MICUCCI EXAMING DAMAGES TO HIS HOME

Md. Micucci in the doorway of his brand new $10,000 home in McLaughlin Run road, Bridgeville. It was bombed.

HOME BOMBED, MAN ESCAPES

William Micucci, alias Billie McGooch, was hurled from his bed this morning as a charge of rynamite wrecked his new $10,000 bungalow and restaurant on the McLaughlin road, Bridgeville. He was in the house alone at the time.

The charge rocked the surrounding hillsides, and when Micucci emerged from the wreckage he found that his bedroom was the only portion of the house that was not badly damaged.

It was Micucci's second night in his new bungalow. Investigating, county detectives report he moved to Bridgeville five years ago from the North Side.

When questioned by County Detective Robert L. McMillen, Micucci said that he could not account for the explosion.

As far as detectives could determine, the charge of dynamite had been planted directly under his bedroom.

U. S. Hears Filipino Leader from Manila

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The voice of Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the Philippine insurrection against the United States, was heard in America yesterday.

Aguinaldo spoke from Manila in the first official Filipino program to be rebroadcast in the United States. Stations KP9 and KGO handled the transmission here over National Broadcasting Company wires.

PETTY SUICIDE LAID TO GRIEF

Despondency due to the recent death of his 13-year-old son is blamed for the death of David F. Petty, 47, president of Petty's, Inc., whose body was found late yesterday in the basement of the Jenkins Arcade. Mr. Petty's failure to return home, after visiting his office in the arcade, led his brother, Merl A. Petty, to ask the building's watchman, James McCray, to investigate. In the basement, the watchman found the body suspended by a rope from a steam pipe.

An envelope addressed to members of the family was found near the body, but Deputy Coroner Mullen Jackson reported a fruitless search for an accompanying note. The case was listed at the coroner's office as suicide.

The son, William, died three weeks ago in Florida, where the family was spending the winter. Afterward the family returned to the home, 1450 Bennington street, Squirrel Hill. Mr. Petty had been in the shoe business here for many years.

Two Failed Brokers Jailed for 6 Years

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—William and Fred Young, investment brokers, who failed last March for approximately $2,300,000, were sentenced today by Federal Judge C. B. Faris to serve six years each in Leavenworth prison for using the mails to defraud. The brothers pleaded guilty October 30.

EVERGLADES COMBED FOR TRACE OF MRS. KEITH-MILLER

HUNT AT SEA DECLARED HOPELESS

Indians, Trappers Search Wild Region in Florida; Lancaster Due at Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1.—Hope for the safety of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, missing on her flight from Havana to Pittsburgh, faded today as airplanes and steamships, hunting her since her disappearance Friday, reported no trace of her plane.

More-hopeful searchers clung to the belief that Mrs. Keith-Miller had been forced down in the jangled Everglades south of Miami, where it would be impossible for her to work her way out for many days.

This section, regarded as among the wildest in the United States, today was being combed by Indians from the Seminole Reservations, and trappers familiar with the section.

SEA HUNT ABANDONED

Carl Voelter, Curtis-Wright manager here, after receiving reports from pilots who had flown a zig-zag route from far out to sea into the lower part of Florida said:

"Further search for Mrs. Keith-Miller is useless. We have scoured every inch of territory to the southeast and west of Florida Peninsula, and the islands southward, and flown low over swamps, glades and keys. The land is desolate, winds are strong and waters running high. Capt. W. N. Lancaster, old friend and flying companion of Mrs. Keith-Miller, wired me he is coming here. I will do all he asks of me, but the case seems hopeless."

FRIEND JOINS SEARCH

Advices from Havana indicated a general belief in shipping and aviation circles that Mrs. Keith-Miller had perished. It was doubted that her monoplane could have remained afloat more than a few hours.

Capt. Lancaster, a former member of the British Royal Air Force, who left Pittsburgh for Miami Saturday to join the hunt for his missing friend and flying partner, was expected in Miami today.

In Washington Capt. Lancaster changed from the plane in which he flew to Washington to a Naval observation land plane, placed at his disposal by government officials. The Navy Department also sent with him on his flight to Miami Chief Pilot Gunn. John Liggett III, Pittsburgh sportsman, who accompanied Lancaster to Washington Saturday, did not make the trip to Miami.

Keith-ler, Australian aviatrix, Presi-t Machado today was plan-g to send messages of con-nce to the Mayor of Pitts-gh and the British government. became known today that the sing aviatrix had been plan-g to attain American citizen-. She had been in the United tes for two and one-half years renewal of her six months vis-'s permit. The American con-te here had almost refused her mission to re-enter the United tes on her landing here, but had declared she was most ious to return to acquire citi-ship.

W. R. Hearst Tells Why He Is Not A Candidate for Any Public Office

The following is William Randolph Hearst's reply to a letter from Mr. S. F. Champion, Jr., of Los Angeles, in which Mr. Champion explains why, on his own initiative, he had circulated buttons and cards advocating Mr. Hearst for President:

November 4, 1930.

Mr. S. F. Champion, Jr.,
4812 Tenth avenue, Los Angeles.

My Dear Sir:

I have your very kind and thoughtful letter. I feel that it deserves a thorough explanation of my position. I appreciate the good will expressed in your distribution of the "Hearst for President" buttons, but I hope you will not distribute them further, for the following reasons, which I think are sound and sufficient:

In the first place, I am not in any manner nor in any sense a candidate for public office of any kind. I have had my day in politics. It was not a very long day nor a very brilliant day, but it was sufficient to convince me that my best opportunity for achievement was in supporting principles and policies and not in holding office.

I am deeply interested in politics, of course. Every American should be deeply interested in the questions which affect the welfare of his country and of his fellow citizens.

I do my best to present the policies I believe in to the consideration of the public and then I do my utmost, in written and spoken word, to try to get public men to follow the wish and wisdom of the American people.

I think my influence would be weakened in these respects if I were a candidate for public office. There always must be a certain assumption on the part of the public that some selfish interest may be involved in any policy when a man is himself in any way the beneficiary of its advocacy.

Second, there is the question—of minor importance to be sure—of my personal wish in the matter. I am sixty-seven years old. I have led a hard-working life, day and night, in newspaper offices, for nearly fifty years.

I do not want to desist from my labors, but I do not want to add to them. A man must always do his work in the world and should always want to do it, and take pleasure in it. In fact, a man who stops working might as well be dead, and to all intents and purposes, is dead.

There comes a time, however, when it is questionable whether a man should take on new work, and it is questionable whether he would do that new work well. My personal wish is to concentrate on the work that I think I can do.

Third, you say that a man in public life should be like the soldier or sailor or aviator, and consider only the requirements of his country. That is true, and there is no sacrifice as great as the sacrifices of those noble souls who are ready to give up their homes and happiness and their lives for their country's sake. All other sacrifices are small in comparison.

But a politician can never tell how much of his sacrifice is due to public demand and how much to personal ambition, and my opinion is that most political sacrifices are on the altar of personal ambition.

This is a great country. There are a hundred and twenty million people in it. It makes progress through the intelligence and sagacity and patriotic devotion of that great multitude of good Americans.

Most of us who think we are leaders are merely flies on the great wheel of progress. We go around with the wheel; we do not make the wheel go around.

Mr. Roy Howard has on the editorial pages of his fine newspapers the motto: "Give light and the people will find their own way."

Education is the only essential. Leadership will always arise from the great body of the people. No one man is needed. And what comfort and confidence that thought inspires!

Moreover, there are plenty of good men in public life. There is a good man in the President's chair. There will be good candidates for the Democratic party and I think my work is to support whoever seems to be the best man on a given occasion and to promote the policies which I believe to be for the best interests of my fellow Americans.

I know you believe in my sincerity and I ask you to believe that I am sincere when I say that I am not a candidate.

With heartfelt thanks for your good opinion, I am,

Very Faithfully Yours,
WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Mr. Champion Explains His Action

Mr. Champion in explaining his motives for circulating the "Hearst for President" buttons, wrote to Mr. Hearst as follows:

October 28, 1930.

William Randolph Hearst, Esq.,
The Examiner, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir:

On my return to Los Angeles last Saturday I was told by my friends that in some circles my efforts had been misinterpreted and the issuance of the "Hearst for President" buttons looked upon as a joke, while others had intimated that it was a cheap gesture on your part to put yourself before the American people as a candidate for the Presidency in 1932.

In the spirit of fair play and to positively eradicate the above thoughts from your mind, as well as from the minds of any other interested persons, I wish to say:

First: That this idea of sending out these buttons is mine, and that I personally mailed or caused them to be mailed throughout of the country to friends, newspapers, prominent citizens of all political parties, writers, associations and periodicals.

Second: That I do not personally know you and have only seen you once in my life and that was on the street in Los Angeles over a year ago.

The cards I sent out with the buttons had inscribed on them:

100 PER CENT AMERICAN.
NO FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENTS!
INDEPENDENT IN EVERYTHING.
TEMPERANCE—NOT PROHIBITION!

There are many more qualifications which may be desirable in a liberal leader, but from watching your career for thirty-odd years, I know that you stand for all of these and many more practical principles. And that, even with the tremendous power of your great newspapers, you have played the game on the level and so far as I know have never taken personal advantage of that power unfairly.

The recent episode in France, while childish on their part, has awakened a generous and loyal response from many of this nation's most prominent citizens, irrespective or party, who recognize in you, Mr. Hearst, a great American, fearless, independent and inspired only by a sense of truth and justice for your fellow compatriots.

These citizens are not Democrats, Republicans or Socialists—they are Americans who love and respect you for your unadulterated Americanism. I believe that everyone of them sees in you Presidential timber, whether they agree with you politically or not.

In answer to any possible critics who may contend that it is unsportsmanlike for me to continue my operations in the face of your avowal that you are out of politics, I have this to say:

No man is big enough to refuse the Presidency if the needs and wishes of the people require his services. If they wish to draft him his duty is just as plain as that of the soldier, sailor or aviator who answers his country's cry of distress in time of war.

Yours Sincerely,
S. F. CHAMPION, JR.

BRITAIN MAKES PROTEST TO SOVIET

Takes Exception to Charges Made A nst Nation in Trial of 8 for Treason

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Arthur Henderson, secretary for foreign affairs, has instructed the British ambassador at Moscow to communicate to Soviet authorities that he takes exception to certain reflections on former and present British governments in connection with the trial there of eight men for treason.

He made this announcement in the House of Commons today in reply to several questions regarding references to British subjects and government officials in the indictments against the accused. He said he could not tell what further steps would be necessary until he had heard from the ambassador, nor did he indicate the "reflections" to which which he objected.

The indictment charged Britain was implicated with France and several other nations in a plot to overthrow the Soviet government. The documents mentioned "Lord Churchill of England," "Col. Lawrence," and Sir Henri Deterding, the British oil magnate.

FRAME-UP DENIED

MOSCOW, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Eight Soviet engineers who are facing execution for having plotted the overthrow of the Moscow government insist that their trial is not a frame-up.

Answering an article in a Warsaw newspaper which said that their confessions of intrigue had been obtained from them through coercive means by the secret police, the eight testified yesterday that they had been treated as gentlemen by the government agents and had gained in health while in prison.

TREATED WELL

Alexander Fedotov, 67-year-old defendant, said:

"It's a most absurd story. I've never been treated so well and never have felt so well as since I have been in prison. I am old and have not much to live for, so I would be the first to denounce the Ogpu (secret police) if any compulsory methods were used in this case. In fact, we have all had better treatment than we deserved."

The name of Raymond Poincare once more entered the trial despite court orders that testimony regarding statesmen of "friendly foreign countries" was to be heard in secret. Fedotov, a defendant, told of a conference of members of the Industrial party with M. Poincare.

Tug Sinks, Crew Takes to Lifeboat

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Pounded by heavy seas, the tug Progressive sank today off Cockenae Island in Long Island Sound, it was reported here, leaving her six men to make their way into Bridgeport in the lifeboat. Her tow, a barge, was left, held by two sea anchors.

GIRL POISONED, TRIAL HALTED

DETROIT, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Sudden illness of a young actress who has been subpenaed by the special crime grand jury here was under investigation today by police and prosecution officials, who held statements indicating poisoned whisky was given to her.

The actress, Margaret Owen, is the sweetheart, police said, of Nicholas (Diamond Bill) Bellabonta, a racketeer, who was to have gone on trial today with Frank Salimone on a charge of killing two policemen last June.

She collapsed Saturday night in the theater where she was playing and was taken to Receiving Hospital, where physicians said she apparently had been poisoned. Her condition today was described as "temporarily serious."

Steps were taken by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy to bring the incident before the grand jury. Circuit Judge Guy A. Miller, before whom Bellabonta was to have gone on trial, postponed the case for a week to permit the grand jury to investigate the poisoning angle.

Tarkington Romance Of 1811 to Be Staged

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—"Colonel Satan," a play by Booth Tarkington, is to be produced. It deals with "romantic episodes in the life of a famous American in France in 1811."

JOBLESS APPLE SALE OPENS

Pittsburgh's apple selling for the unemployed today opened as a one-man monopoly for the first hours with the expected rush not in evidence for the crates at the apple committee headquarters, 2002 Pike street.

The first applicant appeared at 7:15 a. m. He was Morris Fitzgerald, an unemployed railroader, who gave the Helping Hand, 429 Water street, as his address. No other applicants had appeared within the next two hours. Fitzgerald took his stand at Fifth avenue and Wood street and was doing a brisk business.

Later several others began operations on other downtown street corners.

Welfare agencies had arranged for the unemployed to sell apples without the formality of obtaining a city license. The apples were being sold to the unemployed at $2 a box of 88 to 100 and retailed at $4.40 to $5, or 5 cents apiece. Cards were obtainable from welfare agencies and when presented at the Pike street address permitted sellers to buy apples at the reduced price.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh announced today that, owing to the unemployment situation, he would permit a limited number of persons to sell Christmas novelties in the downtown streets.

DEATH TAKES 'MOTHER' JONES

Militant Labor Crusader, 100 Years Old, Loses Long Fight; Federation Mourns

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Mary "Mother" Jones is no more. The staunch little defender of the working man last night closed her eyes on 100 years of throbbing life.

It was her body that failed under the pressure of time, for the spirit which had carried her through the battles of union labor still was militant. Only one friend was with her at midnight when her heart stopped.

She stirred slightly on her bed and then lay still. Mrs. Walter Burgess, who had harbored and tended her in the retirement of the final years, bent over and saw it was the end.

LONG STRUGGLE

From her little country cottage on the outskirts of the capital, word went out that brought sorrow to the thousands who have surrounded the little Irish woman with a halo of near-sainthood.

Many times the end had been expected during the past year as she gradually ceased to be able to take nourishment. Last May 1 she celebrated her one hundredth birthday. It was a quiet occasion, but it marked the ending of a long hostility between her and the almost-as-ancient John D. Rockefeller, who once had her put in jail.

FOUGHT ILL FORTUNE

Mary Jones was born in Cork, Ireland. Her father brought her to the United States and then went to Canada. She returned to Michigan to teach school in Monroe. Then she married, only to lose her husband and four children in the yellow fever epidemic of 1867.

She went to Chicago, only to lose what she had made in a second start when the great fire of 1871 destroyed her little dress shop.

But her real career was on then, agitating constantly for the laboring men in strikes and troubles of all sorts.

From place to place she went, in and out of jail, deported from states, but never quitting. In her there was no compromise.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said of her death:

"The loss sustained cannot be measured, and the service she rendered will never be surpassed or excelled. The hearts of the men and women of labor are very sad."

BURIAL WITH MINERS

MT. OLIVE, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—"Mother" Jones will rest in death where she fought in life—beside her "boys."

The centenarian labor crusader willed that she be buried in the Mt. Olive Union Miners' Cemetery, the necropolis dedicated to the strikers killed in the Virden mine riot of 1898. Her grave faces the memorial.

To certify this burial provision in Mother Jones' will, her wish was recorded three years ago in the Macoupin County Court House.

MAY PROFFERS FUND FOR DOPE EVIL BOOK

Pittsburgh Member of Geneva Board Would Give Money Denied by League Group

By KENNETH CLARK.
Universal Service.

GENEVA, Dec. 1.—Herbert L. May, of Pittsburgh and New York, American member of the Permanent Central Opium Board of the League Nations, has offered to privately raise funds for the publication of a document attacking the narcotic evil. The document is one which the League's information section has refused to make public.

It is called "The A. B. C. of Narcotic Drugs" and is written by Dr. Otto Anselmino, of Germany, a member of the Opium Board.

BAN PUBLICATION

When the secretary of the Opium Board asked the League to publish Dr. Anselmino's work in pamphlet form for public distribution, the League's information section brusquely turned down the request.

The Opium Board's secretary reported on the incident:

"The secretary regrets to have to report that the only result of the correspondence exchanged on this subject is an assurance that 'if the central board can find the money for this publication, the information section is at its disposal for any arrangements for printing (in co-operation with the publication department), advertising, etc.'"

BOARD AROUSED

Board members were furious. The estimated cost of publishing the anti-narcotic document was only $200 and previously the information section had spent about $20,000 to issue a book extolling the League. Further the funds for disseminating League material and educational work were increased at the last assembly.

It was here that May stepped in with his offer to assure the public distribution of the enlightening pamphlet.

CITY'S BUDGET DEMANDS NO TAX RAISE

crease is due chiefly to police and fire pay increases and the additional men required by the annexation of territory.

SALARY INCREASES

Briefly summarized by the Mayor, there is an increase of $500,000 for salaries and wages, an increase of $95,000 in contingent funds, a decrease of $105,000 for debt and interest and a reduction of $350,000 in the estimates for supplies, materials, repairs, equipment and miscellaneous services.

The Mayor asked Council in the budget for 50 additional regular patrolman, these positions accounting for about $90,000 of the increase in the wages appropriation. The Department of Public Safety had requested 100 more men. These are regulars, not to be confused with the 350 emergency men suggested by the Mayor some time ago for the winter months.

GARBAGE COST DOWN

The estimate for the collection of garbage and rubbish has been reduced $75,000, for street repaving and maintenance $125,000 and no appropriation has been asked for the purchase of animals for the Highland Park Zoo. The street and park lighting estimates has been raised $77,000 while $35,000 is added to the estimate for water from the South Pittsburgh Water Company.

Mayor Kline, sending the budget to Council, reiterated a statement made when he sent the document last year: that many proposed improvements should be financed by bond issues, the terms of the issues to be based upon the estimated life of each project. He said that among the items asked by the department heads that could be properly financed by bonds are $335,000 for the construction of new water mains, $335,000 for the replacement of mains, $220,000 for the construction of two new, and the reconstruction of three old engine houses and bridge repairs totaling $328,000.

While the estimates sent to Council by the Mayor are $140,500 higher than last year's budget, they are $103,678 lower than the actual expenditures authorized by Council to date for this year, according to the statistical bureau. To the 1930 budget of $27,675,564 Council has added $104,125 for interest charges and emergency funds of $140,000.

PUBLIC SAFETY DEMANDS

The largest increase is in the Department of Public Safety for which $7,268,492 is asked as compared with $6,898,852 last year, an increase of $369,629. The largest decrease is in the Department of Public Works. For this department $7,071,094 is asked, compared with $7,324,980, a decrease of $253,886.

A slight increase for the Department of Public Welfare is contained in the budget, the amount recommended being $1,098,054 compared with $1,060,823 last year. The Department of Health, which got $2,823,493 last year, has estimates of $2,754,667 for 1931, a decrease of $68,825.

The various departments, bureaus and offices making up the organization of the city, including the Mayor, Council, Controller, Treasurer, Assessors, Supplies and various commissions, have been cut a total of $29,927. Of this cut $8,499 is in the Mayor's office. The largest decrease, $59,904, is in the budget for Council and the city clerk. This is possible because several large appropriations credited there, such as $60,000 for the Golden Light Jubilee, will not be needed in 1931.

The Treasurer's office budget shows a $10,954 decrease, the office of the delinquent tax collector a $21,754 increase, which is said to presage increased activity there, and the controller an increase of $10,954. The department of law budget has been reduced $3,871.

Infant Death Rate Declines in Britain

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—In three months ended September 30, 165,768 babies were born in England and Wales, the registrar general reported today. In the same period, England showed the lowest infant mortality rate in the history of the registry bureau. Only 45 English babies per thousand died before they were a year old.

The figures represent a decrease of 14 per 1,000 under the average for the third quarter of the last 10 years.

Machado Orders Troops From Havana

HAVANA, Dec. 1. — (AP.) — President Machado this morning signed a decree nullifying the suspension of constitutional guarantees, which had been in effect the last two weeks because of student disturbances. Troops that had been on duty in Havana were ordered withdrawn.

Newark, N. J., Church Burns, Loss $250,000

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Fire today destroyed the main structure of the Second Presbyterian Church. The loss was estimated at $250,000, including a $25,000 organ, paintings and costly stained glass windows.

Rain Fills Streams In Greene County

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The first rain of any consequence since June 13, drenched Greene County yesterday and last night. Streams that have been dry for three months had water in them today.

Isaac W. Frank, Steel Man, Dead

short preparatory course at Newell Institute and at the Western University of Pennsylvania, entered Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y. There he engaged in the only engineering studies available at that time, those dealing with "civil engineering."

Following his graduation from Rensselaer, he returned to Pittsburgh and entered the employ of the Keystone Bridge Company. This was in 1876. For two years he worked at a drafting board, engaged in designing some of the structural steel for the New York Elevated Railways.

In 1879, Mr. Frank entered the government service. He was assigned to a geodetic survey of rivers and harbors and sent to record soundings of the Mississippi River in the vicinity of Vicksburg. Next he worked at Leadville, Col., in the capacity of deputy United States mineral surveyor. Those were the days when a gun for self-defense was as necessary as a transit for surveying.

REACHES TURNING POINT

His next job was with the Richmond and Allegheny Railroad as assistant engineer of bridges, during 1880. This date marked a turning point in the career of Isaac W. Frank.

Returning to Pittsburgh, he found his opportunity to take up the work that had been nearest his heart since youth. He became affiliated as engineer and secretary of the Lewis Foundry and Machine Company. This firm, well-known in the industrial history of Pittsburgh, specialized in the manufacture of machinery used in the production of steel.

Mr. Frank was responsible for hundreds of inventions that have been used in steel manufacturing the world over.

FORMS STEEL COMPANY

In 1892 Mr. Frank formed the Frank-Kneeland Machine Company, which he later consolidated with a number of other plants to organize the United Engineering and Foundry Company. He was president of the corporation until 1919 when he resigned to become chairman of the executive committee.

Mr. Frank was also associated with William H. and J. H. Moore in the formation of the American Sheet Steel Company, now part of the United States Steel Corporation. For some years he was treasurer and director of the Empire Coal Mining Company, was one of the founders of the National Founders' Association.

At various times Mr. Frank also served as director in numerous other industrial organizations including the National Steel Corporation, the Apollo Steel Company, the Copperweld Steel Company and the Great Lakes Engineering Works. He was also a member of the board of the Bank of Pittsburgh.

Keenly interested in the advancement of education, Mr. Frank became a trustee of his alma mater, the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, in 1921. He was one of the most active workers as a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh, persuading others to give in addition to his personal contributions. Recently, Mr. Frank presented to the university a laboratory for glass technology, in memory of his father.

GIVES TO CHARITY

The continuous interest Mr. Frank maintained in works of charity he might well have inherited from his mother, who was one of the founders of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor. Mr. Frank was also a member of this board. Scores of major benefactions have been carried on so quietly that not even the members of his own family have been fully aware of them.

Mr. Frank was vice-chairman of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Red Cross. He was also a director in the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, the Montefiore Hospital, the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association, the Emma Farm Association, the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, the American Jewish Committee, and the Rodef Shalom Congregation.

Mr. Frank was also a member of the Pittsburgh Foundrymen's Association, past president of the Pittsburgh Employers' Association and a member of the Pittsburgh Smoke Prevention Advisory Board.

His memberships in clubs included the Western Pennsylvania Engineers' Society, the Concordia Club, the Westmoreland Country Club, and the Pasadena Country Club.

Mr. Frank was married in Pittsburgh to Tinnie Klee on November 15, 1883. He leaves his widow and three children, all of Pittsburgh, Mrs. S. J. Anathan, William K. and Robert Frank, and seven grandchildren.

Honorary pall bearers will be: Leon Wertheimer, O. W. Oppenheimer, A. M. Oppenheimer, Edgar K. Frank, Herbert I. Frank, Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, Harry L. May, Joseph Wormser, Isaac Wormser, Mone Anathan, Dr. Lawrence Wechsler, S. E. Bramer, George T. Ladd, William Gardner, Harrison Nesbitt, Dr. John G. Bowman, A. HELIUM EXPORT BILL PREPARED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Lifting the ban against exportation of helium, the non-inflammable gas, to permit its use abroad for inflating dirigibles and balloons is proposed in a bill being drafted by Representative Arentz (Rep.), Nevada, one of two engineers in the House.

Arentz, a member of the House Mines Committee, plans to seek early action on his measure that Great Britain and Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, may obtain the gas, on which this country holds a monopoly. Arentz observed:

"It would be a humanitarian move and would not endanger the national safety. It would prevent possible disasters similar to that of the British airship R-101 in France. In war time we could cease exportation."

2 Killed, 1 Injured In Earth Slide

SAN MATEO, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Buried under an earth slide as they were eating a picnic lunch, Mrs. Angeli Barth, San Mateo, and Edwin Morgan, Roseville, were killed near Half Moon Bay. Mrs. Barth's 12-year-old daughter, Mildred, was injured, probably fatally.

The woman's husband and two children sitting nearby narrowly escaped death.

Never Saw Plane, Woman, 90, Wants To Fly

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 1.—Although she has never seen an airplane, having been totally blind for the past 10 years, Mrs. Anna Jones, aged 90, is willing to take a chance and ride in one.

She celebrated her ninetieth birthday by enjoying the radio and hopes to be able to sing Welsh songs over the air some day although she realizes that few would be able to understand the words.

AIMEE RETURNS TO PULPIT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, returned to her pulpit at Angelus Temple yesterday after an illness of four months.

The church was decorated with flowers and a great banner reading "Welcome Home Our Sister."

Mrs. McPherson entered supported by her son, Rolf McPherson, and spoke two minutes. Many of her followers wept. Few could hear her brief message, spoken in a weak voice.

The evangelist suffered a nervous breakdown last August.

LOOT SMALL, 4 BURN CLUB

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Hamilton Chateau, restaurant and night club, was burned to the ground by four armed men after they had held up Ernest Settman, porter.

The four drove up in an automobile shortly after the place had closed for the night. After tying up Settman with wire and robbing him of $20 they shoved him into the cellar.

Finding the cash register empty the robbers then spread the contents of two five-gallon cans of inflammable liquid over the interior of the club.

Settman escaped through a back door to find the place in flames. The building, valued by James Egan, the proprietor, at $30,000, was destroyed.

Wales Joins Spanish Club After Study

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, who has been studying Spanish in preparation for his forthcoming visit to South America, has been formally enrolled a member of the Spanish Club of London. The secretary said:

"The prince's Spanish is becoming better and better. He speaks slowly but clearly and has a good understanding of the language."

MANATEE RIVER GRAPEFRUIT

Reasons why you will buy Manatee River Grapefruit

They are fully ripened on the trees.

The sweetness and acid are well blended, giving them a delicious tang.

They contain a fourth to a third more juice than the average grapefruit.

They have a thin rind with a delicious melting pulp.

The rind is treated to prevent decay and evaporation.

They will keep six weeks to three months if kept in a cool place.

They are rich golden in color and free from rind defects.

DID you ever taste a grapefruit right off the tree where it had fully ripened in Florida sunshine, its sweetness and acidity blended into a delicious tangy flavor? Manatee River Grapefruit are packed when they attain just the right degree of ripeness and shipped direct from the groves to McCann's. They're at their best when eaten without sugar. If you like grapefruit, you'll want no other kind after eating a "Manatee River."

HEARING ON NEW CAB FIRM SET

The application of the Bell Cab Company for permission to operate taxicabs in Pittsburgh will be heard by the Public Service Commission Wednesday, it was announced today. Congressman Harry Estep will represent the company. The commission recently refused applications to five companies formed for the operation of cabs here.

Congressman Estep has requested that the city do not become a protestant to the application. He states his clients will furnish cheaper service and break the alleged monopoly grip held by the Parmalee Transportation Company here.

Can't Trust Bull, Judge Bars Fight

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A bull simply cannot be depended upon. Chief Justice Gummere voiced that opinion in a decision that definitely cancelled Newark's proposed bull fight of December 6.

The court ruled against an application for a writ to compel a permit for the fight and said Safety Director Egan's better judgment should prevail.

"You can never tell," the justice observed, "what even the best-bred bull may do."

Frank Bozza, counsel for Promoter Mackay, had argued that the proposed fight, starring Toreador Sidney Franklin, would be merely an exhibition of skill and grace, without danger and cruelty.

CLUB BUILDING PLANS O.K.'D

Plans for the new $25,000 clubhouse of the Leo Council, No. 483, Young Men's Institute, at Warrington and Curtin avenues, were approved yesterday afternoon at a special meeting in St. George's Auditorium, Island avenue. Speakers included John J. O'Donnell, who has been awarded the contract for the building; former Councilman P. J. McArdle, and W. D. McKenne, grand secretary of the Young Men's Institute.

A campaign for new members was a primary purpose of yesterday's meeting. Ground for the new clubhouse will be broken soon.

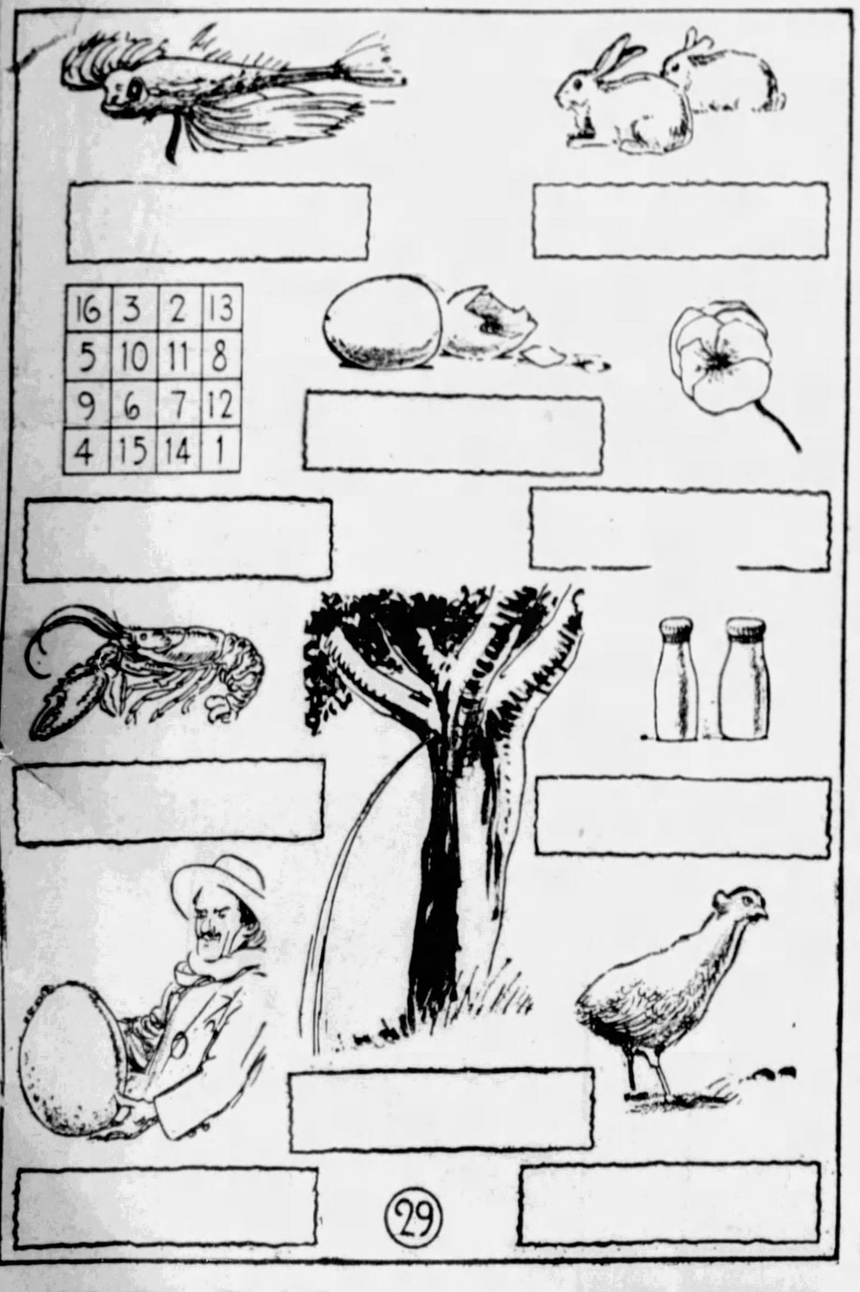
RIPLEY'S TITLE HUNT No. 2



$1500 in Cash Prizes FREE!

START now to win your share of this $1500 in prizes. Join in this fascinating New Title Hunt through the Classified Ads. Thirty sets of Ten Ripley pictures each will be published. The number of the above set appears in this cartoon—the first appeared November 2nd. If you have missed any of the series you can secure back copies of the Sun-Telegraph containing sets of Ripley pictures and titles. Simply address your request, specifying the dates and numbers of the sets you require, to the New Ripley Title Hunt Editor, care Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh. Enclose 10c for each copy of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph—3c for each copy of the daily Sun-Telegraph. Or you may proceed according to Rule 8. Make your start in the New Ripley Title Hunt TODAY.

FOLLOW THESE RULES

1—Every one is eligible to participate in the New "Title Hunt" except employes of the Sun-Telegraph and their families.

2—Every day from November 2nd to December 1st inclusive ten Ripley "Believe It or Not" pictures (without descriptions) will be published in addition to the regular Ripley page feature. The descriptions for each picture will be published in the Classified Ad Columns.

3—The New Ripley "Title Hunt" consists in finding the descriptions, clipping them out, and placing each under the picture to which it refers. The words making up the description will be published as a single unit in one place.

4—Hold all of the pictures until you have thirty complete sets of 10 each—300 pictures in all. Then send them in to the New Ripley "Title Hunt" Editor Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

5—All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, Thursday, December 11th. No entries will be returned to the sender.

6—Fifteen hundred dollars in cash prizes, in accordance with the complete prize list published herewith, will be paid to the persons sending in the most nearly correct and most neatly prepared set of pictures at the close of the New Ripley "Title Hunt."

230 Cash Awards

First Prize			$250.00
Second Prize	150.00	Fifth Prize	25.00
Third Prize	75.00	25 Prizes at $10	250.00
Fourth Prize	50.00	100 Prizes at $5	500.00
		100 Prizes at $2	200.00
TOTAL (230 Cash Prizes)			$1,500

7—A committee of judges will be appointed by the Sun-Telegraph to determine the successful contestants. All entrants agree to accept the decisions of these judges as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be given each tying contestant.

8—It is not necessary to purchase the Sun-Telegraph to compete. The newspaper may be examined at the office or at the public libraries free of charge, and if you wish you may copy or trace the pictures from the Sun-Telegraph and then assemble the sets from the copies you have made.

Be Sure to Get All the Pictures

The demand for both the week-day and Sunday editions of the Sun-Telegraph is bound to be immense and each day's supply quickly exhausted. To be sure you get the pictures and descriptions as they appear each day, it is good judgment to place a regular order NOW.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

False Pride Is Cause of Many Heartaches

Are you proud? Too proud to bring friends to your humble home?

And do you let that "Pride" shut you out of all the fun your heart longs for . . . while you sit at home, poisoning yourself with envy of the people who live in the Swell Dump on the next block?

That's what Eloise and Carla are doing.

They'd like to go places and be the life of the party . . . and they could. People ask 'em and ask 'em . . . but they can't go without asking the gang in . . . so they turn 'em all down.

Life Complicated

And they're not the only ones who are tangled up in such a home-brew of misery. I've heard their plaints before . . . and am I going to sympathize with 'em, and tell 'em it's a hard world? Yes, I am not.

"Dear Sally Martin—

"We are two sisters, 18 and 20 years old, and we need some of your good advice, and how! We just don't know what to do.

"We'd like to go out, but we can't. Why? Not because we're not asked, and often. But you see if we did go, we'd feel that we should have the gang at our place, to pay back for their courtesy to us, and we just can't ask them, because our home is so humble and so out-of-date that we're ashamed to have anyone see it.

"In fact, we're really terribly humiliated when people do visit us. We are both quite attractive. My sister, Carla, is a brunette with very nice wavy hair and big brown eyes, and I am a blonde. We both have attractive personalities, according to our friends, and we could make lots of friends on the outside, if we wanted to, but we don't do that. We don't think it is right to meet people that way. So, of course, life is terribly complicated for us. Whenever we're asked anywhere, we just have to refuse.

Poor Circumstances

"You may think we're foolish, but in the past we have been bitterly humiliated and embarrassed by this situation. We have perfectly wonderful parents, who are trying their best to do what they can for us, but luck seems to be against us, and we are now in dire circumstances and it doesn't seem possible to improve them.

"We have tried to stand this weary life for years, and now things are quite unbearable. After refusing so many good invitations, for which we long so bitterly, people don't bother with us any more, and imagine we're 'stuck up!' Oh, if they only knew! If they only knew how we crave for youth, companionship, good times, adventure! But it seems as if we can't ever have any of these things. So instead we laugh things off, and continually make excuses.

"Lots of times we are almost forced to do things and to meet people away from home, but we have too much respect for our parents to do that.

"What can we do, Sally? Please, please tell us. We're just desperate! I, being the more dreamy and sentimental, have finally almost decided to leave home. I hate to do that, but do you think it is right for us to have to shut ourselves off from the world in which we belong?

"We will be waiting eagerly to read your answer, so please don't fail us, will you? We do need help badly. ELOISE."

What'll you do?

Snap out of your foolishness! No, I'm not joking. I'm telling you seriously that no one is responsible for your trouble but you, yourself.

Work for Happiness

If you insist on putting on a large front, certainly you'll be embarrassed when your friends find that you're just a couple of four-flushers. But if you'll forget about playing big, and just be a couple of human beings, and pick out the right kind of friends, you'll find they'll like you and respect you even if your home is humble.

But they'll despise you . . . and rightly . . . if you keep on yelping about being ashamed of it.

And how about you digging in and doing a little to improve that home yourselves? Why two smart girls can't slick up any two-room flat, and make it a haven of friendliness and good cheer, is by me!

You can have all the friends and fun and laughter and adventure in the world, if you'll quit being sorry for yourselves and go after it.

There is more real adventure in making something out of nothing, and in being so charming that people will forget where or how you live, than there there is in being a queen in the biggest palace on earth.

But it takes a regular gal, and not a cry-baby, to put it over.

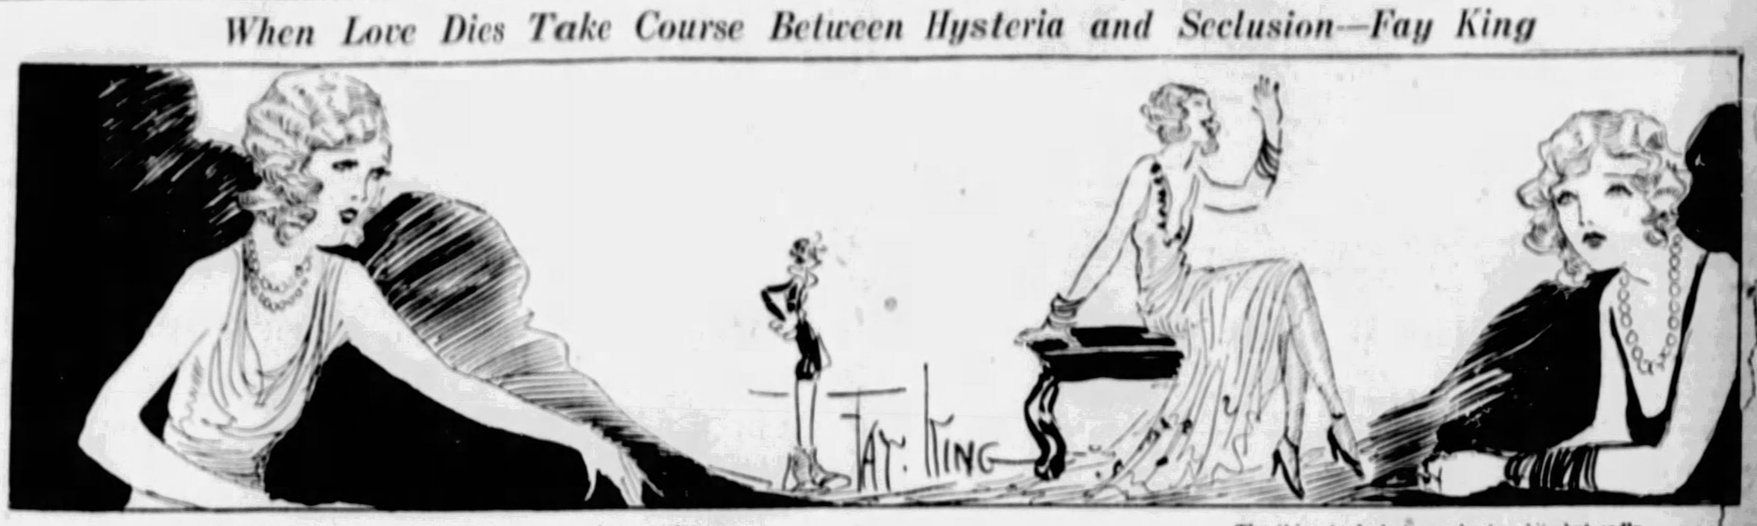
When Love Dies Take Course Between Hysteria and Seclusion—Fay King



By FAY KING

When a love affair or marriage breaks up, most women do one of two things.

They either step out on a sort of hysterical tear to show how little it all means to them. Or else they seclude themselves in tears, seeing no one.

Both courses are wrong.

Cynical wisecracks and carousing will not inspire love in any of the men she meets. They will take her at her word and actions.

The woman who secludes herself will deteriorate and be forgotten.

The thing to do is to go about a bit—but sadly.

Men are very sentimental.

The more you idealize your lost love, the more you will inspire your new love.

Show that you have cared—and can care again.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation Of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The Veritzen Dinner Proceeds Calmly

A glance at Edith Fairfax's eyes from beneath my own lashes told me that she, indeed, had been an afterthought in Dicky's plan, and that he had not come to the city on her summons, but on mine. She does not possess Lillian's poker face, and I guessed that when she had seen me at Philip Veritzen's right hand, the guest of honor at his dinner, she had counted upon Dicky's jealousy to keep the truth from me. But my Peter Pat never does the expected thing. Also he is naturally truthful and he evidently had given a frank answer to Lillian's query concerning his unexpected trip to the city.

But I knew better than to augur any rise in our marital temperature from Dicky's truthfulness. That he was angry at himself for having come to the city in answer to my summons I well knew. Would he let that anger stand in the way of helping me with the "party" I had promised Mary? I knew that I could not be sure of a single action of his for the next day or two. He might return directly to the farm after the dinner without a word to me; he might come to the hotel and stage what Harry Underwood calls a "Knock-down and drag-out row" or, most unlikely surmise of all, but still possible, he might ignore the matter altogether and help make Mary's party a success, with every outward appearance of friendliness toward me but treating me with icy hauteur when we were alone.

The knowledge of the truth concerning his trip was like armor buckled on, however, and I settled down to enjoy the rest of the dinner with the gusto of the rest of the party, all of whom were vociferously enthusiastic about it.

"There's only one dish I know that equals the lamb," Lillian said after we had finished the course.

"What is that?" Mr. Veritzen inquired, a delicate shade of disbelief in his tone.

"You've eaten it, old dear," she retorted. "Don't you remember our pirate steak on the shore off Montauk?"

No one saw Mr. Veritzen shiver, but I guessed that a quiver of distasteful remembrance had rippled down his back. Four of us at the table remembered that memorable picnic when Mr. Veritzen, city-bred and sybarite to the finger tips, had tried hard to conceal his aversion to our rustic merrymaking. Why Lillian had intentionally goaded him I did not know until I saw her glance quickly at Mary and then away again, and realized that she was hotly resentful against the great producer, even though he was, in her own vernacular, "an old crony," because of the net she, as well as I, saw him spreading for the child's unwary feet. For the present neither Lillian nor I could do anything save mount vigilant guard over Mary, but I knew my old friend well enough to be sure that she would miss no opportunity of sticking needles into the gentleman's sensitive epidermis.

"Oh, yes," he returned gamely, "you broiled it over coals, I believe, on a gridiron."

"You've forgotten, old dear," she drawled. "We skewered pieces of lamb, allee samee this lamb, alternating with bacon and onions, and revolved it before a fire."

"Taking turns squatting on our heels and roasting our faces as well as the meat," Dicky supplemented. "The flavor of the ashes and the real out-of-doors, and all that sort of thing. You could not help but remember, once you experienced it."

"Ah, yes," Mr. Veritzen rejoined, looking a bit harried. "I remember distinctly now. It was most delicious. But I am afraid you were all too kind to me. I did not do my share of the cooking, as I remember."

"No, you bet you didn't," Lillian retorted. "Just what would you have done, darling, if we had asked you to get down on your marrow bones and turn a skewer?"

"Don't you answer that, Phil, on advice of counsel." Harry Underwood struck in, and I guessed he thought the baiting had gone far enough. That he shared Lillian's resentment against his host I knew, but he was less nerve-racked than she, and just at present cooler-headed.

"When mein frau gets started cross-examining," he went on, "you might as well throw up your hands. Either confess everything and throw yourself on her mercy or maintain a stubborn silence. Oh, boy, look at this salad. I don't believe there's enough variety in it, Phil. You must have overlooked one or two green vegetables grown in the world."

His irony was justified for the usual tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers and onions of a combination salad were supplemented by tiny radishes, by ripe olives, by water cress, by odd and toothsome varieties of lettuce and by greens that I never knew existed. And the dressing which garnished it was a gastronomical dream.

Mr. Veritzen smiled, relieved, I guessed, to be freed from Lillian's baiting. The next instant it had deepened into something sardonic as Mary's voice said:

"I can't promise that, Mr. Cameron, until I have asked Auntie Madge."

The Marry-Go-Round

Mixed Grill

Three-quarters of the average woman's love for a man is mother-love—or the love of mothering.

The fond parent, who attempts to get chummy with "the young folks" and join them in their pastimes, these days, is apt to find himself about as popular as a horseshoe in a garage.

The modern man appears to regard every woman, married or single, as "nobody's darling"—yearning for a little affection. If she can't be kissed, he thinks she ought to be psychoanalyzed.

* * *

It takes time to make a husband out of a bachelor. A girl "gets married;" but a man just gradually BECOMES married, by degrees, as he becomes bald or middle-aged or fat or wealthy.

* * *

You seldom hear of a man "proposing marriage" any more. He merely drops a hint that he is thinking about it, and then waits for the girl to follow it up with a good convincing selling-talk.

A gentleman is a man who believes the date on a woman's birth-certificate when it clashes with the color of her hair or won't balance with her "official age."

Not matter how BLINDLY a man loves a woman, he should be able to see when he's treading on her pet complex or touching the "third-rail" of her vanity.

The "back-to-clothes" movement has met such enthusiastic approval from the male of the species, that we who were about to die of pneumonia, will probably live to suffocate in stays, bodices and red-flannel petticoats.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Dance Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other day I was given a ticket to a dance admitting a gentleman and a lady. This dance will include only an exclusive crowd of people of high character and not just an every-night dance crowd.

Now, would it be proper for me to ask a young man I know well to take me to this dance? I cannot expect him to pay for the ticket as it cost me nothing.

If it is proper to ask, kindly let me know how to word this request. HELEN.

Yes, it is entirely correct and proper for you to invite a friend to take you to this dance. Write him a little note of invitation something like this:

Dear Bob:

How would you like to go to a dance on the 5th of December, to be given by the Blank Club? I was given two tickets the other day for the dance, and I should be very happy if you are disengaged on that evening and would like to go with me. Here's hoping.

Best wishes to you and anticipations for the 5th.

Most cordially yours, HELEN.

I don't get your point about making him pay for the ticket for the dance. Why should you? It sounds as if you were trying to go into the speculating business. You should not have him pay for the ticket even if you had had to pay for them (since you are inviting him to be your guest) and certainly he should not be given the privilege of paying for a ticket that cost you nothing.

For the Co-Ed

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

1. Is it proper for a girl to accept any fall rushing dates if she is not planning to enter the university until the spring?

2. Who is a gentleman, in a party of four, supposed to call for first?

3. Should a lady always make the first gesture of writing to a gentleman?

4. Would it be correct in the case of a lady congratulating a young man who has just made a great step towards success?

READER.

1. Yes, if she wishes to, or unless she is sure that the custom of the university does not suggest that she refuse these dates.

2. There wouldn't be any rule about this, except the suggestion of convenience—or very decided inclination. If he is engaged to one of the girls, for instance, naturally he would wish to call for first.

3. No, quite the reverse. The gentleman asks the lady for the privilege of writing to her, and naturally he exercises this privilege first, by writing to her first, to show that he is grateful to her for her permission.

4. Yes, such an occasion would call for the giving over of precedence of writing the first letter, for the girl would naturally wish to get her letter at once to the fortunate friend.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When beauty overstresses her efforts to make herself pleasing she loses a valuable element of charm, which is naturalness of manner. Any social philosopher will have observed that it isn't always the girl who is the life of the party that is surrounded by cavaliers, but the more quiet lassie who permits the male of the species to show off and tell her what a fine feller he is. He finds her restful; he thinks she is sympathetic. Sometimes she is. Often she is foxy and subtle.

The seeing eye of the mind catches glimpses of beauty in the plainest faces. A wrinkled countenance, tired and wan, even ugly, can convey a sense of exquisite tranquility that touches the heart. A flash of great sudden joy, lighting up eyes that have been dull, imparts a radiance that is breath taking. If the test of beauty—like art—is that it must arouse emotion, then plenty of beautiful women aren't beautiful at all. They may possess perfection of form, features and coloring, but they lack that human spark that sets hearts a-thumping.

Take the strong mirror to the light and see if neck and complexion are divorced. They often are. Face surface will be peachy-sweet and the epidermis on the neck yallery and unsightly. Necks are neglected. They rub against coat collars, catch asmospheric dust, have a trying time generally. They need bleaching cream, cold compresses and exercises achieved by throwing the head forward and back or from side to side.

Fatigue is a beauty foe. It is a devourer of youth and good looks. It is produced in the body by prolonged activities, either mental or physical, and it in turn creates toxins which are depressing. They slow up the step, take the healthy sparkle from the eyes, destroy appetite and rob the weary one of interest in pretty nearly everything. No sane woman will drive herself to the point of fatigue, which depletes the vitality of the mind, the spirit and the physical mechanism.

Household Hints

The back of the canvas of the oil painting should be given two or three coats of white lead to preserve it from decay. This will also help to keep the canvas that has already started to decay.

Don't even try to pull that sticky paper from the package of raisins. Just tuck the package in the oven for a few minutes and the paper will peel right off and the raisins will separate without any effort on your part.

If a certain cookie of which you are fond is very difficult to handle, in that it sticks and tears, try mixing your batter the day before baking and placing it in the refrigerator overnight. You will be delighted how much easier the job will be the next day.

Acidine Ends Acidity and Gas Torture Quick

"Terrible attacks of acidity were so weakening that they began to get on my nerves," says Charles Loreman, of Rochester, Pa. "Then I tried ACIDINE. I cannot praise it enough. I feel so relieved and better in every way. I wish everyone who is suffering acidity would try ACIDINE."

Almost everyone who take ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other know remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at your druggist. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Massage as Substitute for the "Daily Dozen"

Massage is not a modern art. It is one of the oldest of all physical treatments for disease and for the exercise of the body. Somewhere about the year 430 B. C. Hippocrates, the first of great physicians, spoke of the treatment of a dislocated shoulder by massage.

DR COPELAND

Today we have all manner of expensive machines and apparatus for applying vibration and massage. There will always be invented a mechanical contrivance for every need. But in this field physicians are calling a halt in the indiscriminate use of such instruments. It has been found that injuries have been caused by their use.

The most valuable form of massage is that given by the skilled technician, under the direction of the doctor. The greatest benefit may come from properly directed massage. There are many medical and surgical conditions greatly helped by passive or active exercise of this sort.

Massage is a highly developed art. The development of the Swedish school of massage early in the nineteenth century did much to put massage on a firm footing and to awaken the public mind to its benefits.

Massage of the highest type does not consist of aimless, unsystematic rubbing and kneading. On the contrary, it means manipulation of a definite and systematic character, done in a scientific manner, each case being treated on its own merits.

By means of the right sort of massage, suppleness and activity of the tissues are aimed at; stiffness and inactivity are lessened; the blood supply and secretions are increased; nerves and lymphatics are stimulated; the muscles and tendons are made to contract more vigorously.

Heat and massage aid greatly in restoring the circulation in some affected part of the body when the muscle fibers need repair. Proper and careful massage of a sprain is often the only way to bring a troublesome part back to a normal condition. Not great harm can be done to the torn ligaments by improperly directed massage.

Massage has proved useful in cases of infantile paralysis, chorea, neuralgia and neuritis. Even in serious diseases, such as locomotor ataxia and muscular atrophy, it has been helpful.

Muscular strength is based on proper muscular action. The very best exercise is to use the natural movements of walking or running. When such exercise is not to be had, in case of injury or disease, then massage may take its place with great benefit.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 2

Very lively business as well as personal affairs are presaged by the astral activities, but these are beset with minor difficulties and perplexities. Letters, writings, publishings and kindred occupations are under fortunate rulership, but employment may give concern, and the affairs are under a menace of fraud or treachery from an unexpected source. Personal correspondence may bring benefits.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and interesting year, with many avenues of business and intellectual pursuits flourishing. Letters, writings, publicity, may bring gratifying returns. But beware of fraud and duplicity, and safeguard the unemployment.

A child born on this day should be versatile, artistic and intellectual, and should succeed in cultural lines, on its own account rather than in employment of others.

EAGUE FAILS TO ABOLISH SLAVERY

Nations Flayed in Failing Action to Free Millions, Prevent Trade in Humans

By KENNETH CLARK.
United Press Staff.

GENEVA, Dec. 1.—As it has failed on so many other promises, notably opium and disarmament, so has the League of Nations, after years, failed to extirpate slavery from the world.

In one of the most scathing attacks ever delivered against the League, Lord Cecil, of England, charged here that the result of the League's efforts against slavery "were absolutely nil."

AROUSED BY DELAY

He was aroused because the League, for another year, postponed the adoption of any effective machinery to abolish slavery.

Although this is the twentieth century, with all its vaunted claims of civilization, he reminded, there are millions of slaves in various parts of the world. He set the figure conservatively at 5,000,000.

During the assembly Great Britain tried to have created an international body to direct abolition work. The move failed. The chief objectors were Abyssinia, Belgium, Portugal, France, Liberia and Holland.

Slaves exist not only in Africa, but, it is said, in the colonies of various European powers. And, Lord Cecil stated, slave trading is carried on in the Red Sea region. He said:

"All that is suggested is postponement for another year. Surely that result will be received with profound disappointment by the many thousands of people throughout the world who have deeply at heart the suppression of this great outrage on human morality.

"HORRIBLE EVIL"

"Slavery is a horrible evil; do not let us shut our eyes to that, and do not let us think that we have really extirpated it.

"No one knows precisely how many slaves there are in the world, but those who have given attention to the subject put the number certainly at millions.

"This ownership of slaves involves the still worse evil of slave trading. The slave trade is a horrible and utterly bestial institution."

Rabbit Reveals Hiding Place Of Loot

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 1.—A rabbit brought a solution of a recent robbery of the Hutchinson Coal Company's store at Robey. A dog chased the rabbit beneath a pile of crossties. Okey Adams, a miner, in routing the rabbit, found a suitcase filled with loot from the store. It was identified as the property of John Whaley, 24, Robey coal loader, who was arrested. Police say he confessed to the burglary and showed where all of the goods had been hidden.

Doll Lady Brings Joy To Many Little Girls

Dear Little Girls:

Here it is Monday again. When it begins to get near Christmas the weeks roll around all too quickly. Just think of it—in less than four weeks the holidays will be here. I know that I'm going to be the busiest lady in Pittsburgh until then. I can tell that from the great number of little girls who have already written to me and told me that they must have one of my wonder "Tickletoes" dollies for Christmas.

Many, many little girls have already done what I asked them to do and have already taken "Tickletoes" home for a playmate. And they are all supremely happy little girls because they now have a big, wonderful dolly that is different from any other doll they ever had or saw.

Here are the names of some of the little girls who have already asked me how they can get a "Tickletoes" doll all for their very own:

Betty Dirming, Irene Breamminger, Marguerite Hope, Gloria Kynlap, Dorothy Porvaznick, Betty Wagner, Luella Wilson, Mary McCaffrey, Ruth Bailey, Lena Cranci, Alice Wadsworth, Tillie Lowrie, Jeannine Currie, Bernice Brenti and Twila Clark.

Let me tell you about my WONDER DOLL. All the little girls who have seen "Tickletoes" can't resist loving her, and naturally they would love her because she's so lifelike, and what little girl doesn't love a real live baby? She is the happiest doll you ever saw, dressed elegantly in pink organdy with real stockings, cute little moccasins, rubber panties and a darling cap with lace ribbons on it. Her legs and arms are of rubber and her soft little toes and fingers are just like a real live baby's. She is unbreakable and has three different voices and 20 inches tall—just about as long as this newspaper page.

Now, if you want a "Tickletoes" for all your very own, to love and to take care of, cut out the coupon, fill it in, and send it to your friend, the

SEVEN PERSONS IN 'REAL FOLKS' CAST IMPERSONATE 17 CHARACTERS

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Seven talented persons play 17 parts in the Real Folks sketches aired over KDKA every Monday night at 9:30. George Frame Browne heads the most versatile cast on the air.

Browne kept an eagle eye for impersonators when he did "Main Street Sketches" for WOR. As a result he has assembled a group capable of imitating most every character as well as the sounds of animals and birds.

It is paradoxical perhaps that Mr. Browne himself should be "Mrs. Jones" when there are three women in the cast but this unusual fact is only accentuated by Elsie Mae Gordon playing the role of "Sneed," the Tom Sawyer devil on wheels.

* * *

"And who is "Prince" the dog?" asks Mickey Jennings, the man who often assembles these daily radio pages in the composing room. Edwin M. Whitney plays "Prince" in addition to Judge Whipple, Bill Perkins and Granpa Overbrook.

Elsie Mae Gordon—the girl we wrote about yesterday—has the most impersonations, those of "Sneed," Bessie Stephans, Miss Harbert, Dehlia, the Negro maid, and Euple, the child with an itch to recite. When a new character is injected, Elsie Mae serves as the "shock troops." She can imitate most anything.

* * *

Phoebe McKay, the girl you saw at the Radio Show in Duquesne Garden, is Effie Watts, the boarding house keeper. She is host to the folks of Thompkins Corners tonight at a supper party given by the men.

Now, that fellow Tony. He keeps many guessing. His part is taken by Jerrey Macey who is also Fred Tibbetts.

Virginia Farmer does Martha and Grandma Overbrook.

Tommy Browne—George Frame's seven year old boy—is Elmer.

We marvel at the ability of Phil Cook to imitate but we'll marvel even more from now on when those Real Folks of seven create the impression of a town hall gathering.

We have it from someone who should know that the "Real Folks" have a potential ability of impersonating 59 different characters.

* * *

What fun it would be to stage a party with the Real Folks, Phil Cook, Correll and Gosden, Bill Hay, Phillips Lord and our own Dave Glsen who can impersonate Swedes, Irish, Hebrews, and "Down East" people with great fidelity. Thirteen people in person would be how many in character? At least 100.

* * *

The ideal place for the party would be the home of William (Bill) Whitney, brother of Edwin M. Whitney and Cass Ward Whitney of KDKA. "Bill" is an affectionate father to the "Real Folks" and many other artists at NBC. They never come to Pittsburgh without telephoning the "grand old man" who is a pretty young fellow at 55, we think.

6 Lawyers in Battle For Foot of Ground

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—A line fence of many years ago has been resurrected from the deed books of Washington County to furnish the basis of a suit brought by Hugh D. Bates against John W. Birch, both residing in East Hallam avenue, in an effort to reclaim one foot of ground. The land has only a nominal value but half a dozen lawyers are employed and proceedings have been in progress for three days.

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Television—wisemen of the ether say—will not come in for general armchair use until its novelty has been exhausted in the theater.

The theater is now too closely identified with the electrical industry to be secondary in any plans of the laboratory researchers for television entertainment. And so the armchairs will have to wait—I hope they won't fall to pieces—until the scientists are good and ready to accommodate them.

If our reading of the tea leaves is correct, television will be the chief sensation of the 1931 show shop season. Well, maybe 1932. It will breathe new life into the theater, particularly that portion of it which showmen call the road, and which still feels the effects of that epochal moment when Asa Yoelson—Al Jolson to you—swept out to the Hollywood goldfields with a triumphant tear in his voice for sonny boy.

Jolson Might Take Padlocks Off Theaters

It would be spectacularly fitting were the television experts to summon the good Massa as the star of their first theater presentation. If Jolson's voice put the padlock on the playhouse, is it not reasonable to believe that Jolson's voice might take it off?

Showmen of Broadway have shed buckets of tears over the condition of the road. It begins to look as if television will be the silver lining to their clouds.

While the theater men are making ready, the concentrated movement to the divans will not attain its fullest significance for several years. Up to the last few months, television in the parlors was always "five years away." Now no definite prediction is heard. It all depends upon the extent of the appeal of its novelty in the theater.

Meanwhile, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is making ready for it with his Radio City—making ready with the assistance of Owen D. Young and such magnificoes of the microphone as David Sarnoff, M. H. Aylesworth and Roxy.

* * *

William Burke Miller, in charge of broadcasts of special news events for the N. B. C., was once promised the commission of a Kentucky colonel for his exploit in bringing temporary succor to the hapless Floyd Collins. He never received it though he helped to keep Kentucky on the front pages for days.

Debutantes Resume Brief Party Crusade

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—This season's debutantes have resumed the campaign for prompter and briefer parties. In accordance with a movement started last year, the Parents' League and the committee of debutantes again have sent letters to hostesses and to guests requesting co-operation in sounding the dinner gong at 8 in the evening and silencing the orchestra at 3 in the morning.

Uruguay Selects Rios President

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Returns of yesterday's national elections indicated that Dr. Pedro Manini Rios, leading candidate of the Colorado party, will be the next president of Uruguay to succeed Dr. Juan B. Campisteguy, whose four-year term ends next March.

The Colorado party, which has been in power in Uruguay since 1865, appeared to have swept the country, getting about three votes out of every five.

0,000 SCOTCH MINERS QUIT

GLASGOW, Scotland, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Ninety thousand Scottish coal miners failed to show up at the mine pits today and the shafts remained idle. The sole exception was in the Ayrshire district where the miners decided to remain on at a day-to-day basis pending efforts to reach a general settlement of the critical national coal dispute.

Meanwhile, here in Glasgow a conference of highest importance was called in the session of the joint negotiating body of the Scottish Trade Conciliation board to consider the acute position existing in the coal fields. Elsewhere in the United Kingdom the government's last-minute efforts to prevent a strike proved successful for a day or so more at least. Here the miners declined to accept even a temporary "spread over" of 90 hours of work in a fortnight proposed by the mine owners against the 7½-hour day, which becomes effective today with the National Coal Mines Act of the Labor government.

A hopeful view is taken of the Scottish situation by James Deonan, president of the National Union of Scottish Mine Workers. It was understood that A. J. Cook, national secretary of the Miners' Federation, has recommended to the Scottish workers' officials that an agreement to pay on a day-to-day basis is advisable pending a general settlement.

DAVIS' EFFORTS REJECTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Anxious to settle the strike among employes of the textile mills in Danville, Va., before relinquishing his office as secretary of labor today, James J. Davis made a futile attempt to mediate the grievance between the workers and employers yesterday when mill owners declined his invitation to come here and attend church with him.

The strike at Danville, which started September 30 and has resulted in the calling out of about 1,000 members of the state militia to protect mill property, has caused Davis much concern. He offered his good offices to arbitrate the trouble at the outset of the strike, the owners refused but the works accepted. He has had a representative at Danville ever since the strike, who has been supplying him with information concerning the exact situation.

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Labor won a minor point in its grievance with the owners of the textile mills here today when Gov. John G. Pollard agreed with the union leaders that the national guardsmen he sent here to maintain order—about 1,000 strong—had no authority to prevent strikers from peacefully picketing the gates of the Dan River mills.

HOOVER UPHELD ON OIL SAVING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—President Hoover's oil conservation policy was upheld today by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

The court sustained the order of Secretary Wilbur in March of last year that pending applications for permits to prospect for oil on government lands be rejected.

Wilbur's order was issued the day after President Hoover stated his conservation policy to newspapermen, saying there would be "complete conservation of government oil in this administration."

In a dissenting opinion Justice Josiah Van Orsdel held Hoover's policy could only be put into actual effect by the issuance of a formal proclamation.

New Trial Denied Convict in Fraud

GREENSBURG, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—S. B. Sklar, Minneapolis, Minn., convicted here on one of two counts of an indictment charging false pretense, was denied a new trial today. The court also refused to quash the second count of the indictment. Sklar was convicted in connection with the obtaining of $2,000 from Samuel Miller, Greensburg banker, after claiming he was Miller's cousin.

He leaves his widow and four children.

2 SHOT, THEFT SUSPECT HELD

CLIFTON, N. J., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—A young Negro walked into a candy store here, shot to death a woman and probably fatally wounded her husband when he resisted a holdup.

Two hours later Newark police arrested Levi Holland, 18-year-old Newark Negro. They said he confessed the crime.

John Nowacki, 42, proprietor, his wife and their four children, the oldest 14, were in the store when the robber entered and advanced on Nowacki.

Nowacki grabbed a chair. The Negro fired and Nowacki fell. Then the robber shot Mrs. Nowacki three times and fled in an automobile.

RULING HELD UP ON CRASH PLEA

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 1.—Judge William Parker has reserved decision on an appeal from summary conviction in the case against Louis Sallinger, of Pittsburgh, charged with reckless driving. Sallinger was driver of the coupe in which Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lockerry and their daughter, Gayle, were injured September 2 near Franklin, when his machine crashed into one driven by Joseph P. Reilly, of Franklin.

The Lockerys are suing Reilly and S. C. Funk, state highway official, for $50,000 damages.

Buried Miner Fed By Tube, Catches Food in Shoe

DORTMUND, Germany, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Deep underground in a cavity of a coal mine near Kastrop lies a miner buried 11 hours in a collapse of a gallery, but still alive and being fed through an air tube.

The gallery caved in Friday noon, engulfing two men who were given up for lost until after 36 hours, when one of them was able to communicate through an air tube that he was not hurt.

Milk and beef tea are being administered to him by means of compressed air. He is able to catch the food in his shoe. It is believed he can be saved, but his companion is thought to be dead.

7 DEPARTMENT STORES HERE SHOW GAIN

October Business 5.3 Pct. Ahead of Month Before; 'Basement' Trade Grows

Seven department stores in Pittsburgh in October did a combined volume of business 5.3 per cent greater than the sales of September, H. W. Correll, statistician of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, announced today. Correll's report was based on records furnished the Federal Reserve Bank.

Correll points out that the decrease in business in October this year, as compared to October, 1929, when business had soared to a high peak, was only 4.1 per cent. He compared business from January 1 to October 31, 1929, with the same period this year, showing that trade had fallen off only 5.4 per cent.

While department store trade as a whole fell off only slightly, basement sales jumped in October this year 3.6 per cent beyond the same month last year. They increased 3.8 per cent in the period from January 1 to October 31, this year, over the sales for the same time in 1929.

Basement sales, stated Correll, constituted 18.4 per cent of the total sales of the seven reporting stores.

In the entire Cleveland Federal Reserve district, of which Pittsburgh is a part, the smallest decreases in October this year, as compared to the same month in 1929, were in the following items: Wearing apparel—knit underwear, 1 per cent; women's and children's gloves, corsets and brassieres, silk and muslin underwear, children's shoes, misses' coats and suits, men's furnishings and infants' wear. The greatest decreases were in Oriental rugs and furniture.

That's What All the Little Girls Exclaim When They See . . .

TICKLETOES Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

Dear Little Girls:

Let me tell you about my new WONDER DOLL. All the little girls who have seen "Tickletoes" can't resist loving her, and naturally they would love her, because she's so life-like . . . and what little girl doesn't love a real live baby? She is the happiest doll you ever saw, dressed elegantly in pink organdy, with real stockings, cute little moccasins, rubber panties and a darling cap with lace ribbons on it. Her legs and arms are of rubber, and her soft little toes and fingers are just like a real live baby's. She is unbreakable and has three different voices and is 20 inches tall—just about as long as this newspaper page. Now, of course, hundreds of little girls in Pittsburgh and vicinity will want a "Tickletoes" dolly for all their very own. They are going to be easy to get. The Doll Lady is going to ask every little girl who wants one to do just a simple little thing for her, and if you want a "Tickletoes" clip out the coupon below, fill in your name and address, and she will send you a letter telling all the details.

AUTO SALES CHIEF SEES TRADE GAIN

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

True story: In Criminal Court recently, a young lawyer managed to gain an acquittal for his client, who was accused of passing a bad check. What's more, the courts placed the costs on the prosecution.

William Pfarr

From the courthouse the successful lawyer and his relieved client went to the lawyer's office.

"I'll pay your bill right away," the client offered, and he filled out a check. The check bounced back.

When John Cowan, the Sun-Telegraph reporter retired from the newspaper business Saturday to become secretary to Congressman [illegible], friends gave him a party at the Roosevelt. Third Penn[illegible] of the speakers was Skull[illegible]derson, who recalled tackle and Freddie Rob[illegible]him were secretaries of Joe [illegible]strong, then mayor.

[illegible]strong, delayed outside his office, called up in the absence of Roberts and asked Ben to issue a proclamation on a certain holiday.

Ben went through the files and studied the proclamations issued by previous mayors. Then he wrote his own masterpiece. In conclusion he wrote something like this:

"And on this day let us all sing the national anthem, 'My Country 'Tis of Thee.'"

To the newspapers he issued the proclamation under

Mayor Armstrong's name.

The following day one of the papers ridiculed what it described as the mayor's ignorance.

A reporter for another paper was kind enough to change Ben's proclamation so that it read correctly. That reporter, Ben said, was Cowan.

Ben trepidly awaited a call-down from Mayor Joe. But Joe was silent. Finally Ben went to him and apologized. And Joe answered:

"That's all right. I didn't know what the national anthem was myself."

In the previous paragraphs I used a brand new word—rapidly. We know this is a new word because we coined it. We couldn't find it in the dictionary and we felt the need of it, so here it is. Why not?)

An explanation has come to light as to why Ernie Peterson, the East End buggy maker, is walking the avenues and alleys these days with a hanging head.

Peterson loaned a hunting dog named, of all names, John Smith, to his friend, Johnny Lucas.

"John Smith is the best hunting dog in the world," Peterson announced.

Lucas took John Smith to the Lucas country home and prepared to go hunting next day.

That night, in the kitchen of the Lucas home, the electric light wire went haywire and the globe fell to the floor, smashing and causing a loud report, much like a shotgun.

John Smith hasn't been seen since.

MAN KILLED BY HIT-RUN DRIVER

Identity of Victim Sought; 13 Persons Injured in Week-End Auto Accidents

One man was dead today, a victim of a hit-and-run motorist, and 13 other persons injured in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district.

Morgue attaches were trying to establish the identity of the hit-and-run victim, about 38, whose head was crushed by an automobile in the 1400 block of East Ohio street, shortly before midnight. Police said the driver failed to stop.

Police early today found an abandoned automobile in Nance way, believed to have been the one which struck the man. R. E. Baldinger, street car motorman, of 31 East Marshall avenue, who had reported the car stolen from his yard, was questioned by police. He said he had borrowed the machine from M. J. Healey, Towers terrace, Bellevue.

THREE IN HOSPITAL

Three of five persons injured yesterday when an automobile in which they were riding crashed against an iron pole in Bigelow boulevard, near Kirkpatrick street, were in West Penn Hospital today. They were Mrs. Mary Schultz, 37, of 2739 Penn avenue; her daughter, Gertrude, 15, and Edward Buczkowski, 21, of 311 Harmar street, police reported. Robert Zygello, 21, of 323 Downing street, alleged driver, and Clara Alder, 18, of 2729 Penn avenue, were treated at the hospital and permitted to leave.

Three girls were hurt when the automobile in which they were passengers got beyond control of Harry Widmaier, 18, of 4821 Dearborn street, and crashed into the front of the store of C. F. Wall, 3912 Perrysville avenue. They were Genevieve Blohr, 19, and her sister, Marie, 18, of 4932 Yew street, and Leona Koch, 17, of 5024 Cyprus street. They were treated at the office of a nearby physician.

TWO BADLY HURT

Genevieve Segal, 17, a maid, of 2514 Beechwood boulevard, and Edward Constantine, 18, of 637 Birchwood avenue, were in a serious condition in Elizabeth Magee Hospital today as a result of an automobile crash near the shelter house in Schenley Park last night. The car skidded and crashed into a tree.

Knocked from the running board of his brother's automobile, parked in the Pitcairn-Trafford road, by another machine, Charles Mikasinovich, 15, of 413 First street, Trafford, was in Braddock Hospital today with lacerations of the head and a fractured left leg.

Motorcycle Patrolman Louis Foster, 32, of South Side Police Station, was injured when his motorcycle collided with an automobile at Eureka street and Beltzhoover avenue, Saturday night. He is in Mercy Hospital.

PEDESTRIAN HIT

Martin Minsberg, 50, of 921 Minetta street, was injured when he stepped from the curb into the path of an automobile at Lockhart and Chestnut streets, North Side. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital. Police said the accident was unavoidable.

Ellwood Harper, 25, of 514 Marie avenue, Avalon, was held in North Side Station on a reckless driving charge after, police said, his car ran down Sam Cubic, of 41 Thirtieth street, at East Ohio street and the Thirty-first Street Bridge. At Allegheny General Hospital it was said Cubic's injuries were slight.

5 Arrested in Dry Raids at Hastings

Prohibition agents, assisted by a detail of state troopers, arrested five men in raids on as many dwellings in Hastings, Cambria County, over the week-end, according to reports at prohibition headquarters today. Four stills and large quantities of moonshine were seized.

Husband's $36,000 Estate Left Widow

The will of Charles C. Bright, 6117 Alder street, filed for probate today, leaves his $36,000 estate to his wife, Clara, who is also named executor.

The Choice of the People—At the International Art Exhibit!

PORTRAIT OF MARION ECKART . . . LEOPOLD SEYFFERT'S

The American canvas awarded the popular prize of $200 in the Carnegie Institute International Exhibition, closing next Sunday. Ballots of visitors since the opening selected it for this annual award.

SECOND CHOICE: "MADONNA OF THE COTTON FIELDS" BY LAURA KNIGHT (BRITISH)

SEYFFERT WINS ART PRIZE

Marion Eckhart, belle of Chicago, is a Pittsburgher by adoption today. For a portrait of her by Leopold Seyffert, once a downtown office boy, won the popular prize in Carnegie Institute's international exhibit. Thousands of ballots, cast during the last two weeks, were counted last night. The show continues another week.

"Madonna of the Cotton Fields," by Laura Knight, a picture of a Negro woman and her baby which the Englishwoman painted last year in Baltimore, was a close second, and "The Sphinx," a delicate picture of a woman sans coat and vest and everything, ran next.

Hopelessly to the rear in the expression of the popular mind was "Madame Picasso," choice of the painters' jury for the leading woman and picture of the show. John Kane's "Across the Strip" received moderate praise, but certainly not the customary vote from "The Strip" where the Kane family resides.

"The Portrait of the Four Sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arthur Hunt" ran fourth. The awards were made known by a committee of newspapermen.

That Pittsburghers know what they like in paintings was interpreted from the wide diversity of taste as expressed in the ballots. Very few pictures were neglected completely, only a dozen of the hundreds going without at least one vote.

Seyffert's popular win was his second. In 1926 he won the $200 award also with "Rose and Silver." He paints women.

Cleaning Company Plant Takes Fire

Damage estimated at $100 resulted from a fire in the rear of the first floor of the Paulson Cleaning Company, 625 Paulson avenue, early today.

REPORTS FILED BY CONSTABLES

Constables appeared in the traditional "blind men's parade" in court today as the December term opened, to report conditions in their respective districts. The first to make their quarterly returns said all was well in their bailiwicks.

The grand jury, consisting of 12 men and nine women, with Henry L. Holder, of Callowhill street, as foreman, began consideration of 550 cases. Two petit juries also were sworn in by Judge George V. Moore.

FIRE ROUTS FIVE IN M'KEESPORT

Nick Musilin, his wife and three small children were driven from their apartment when fire broke out in the barber shop of Joseph Stefano beneath them in the 600 block of Fifth avenue McKeesport, early yesterday. The blaze started from a water heater, police said. The damage was estimated at $1,500.

Cleveland Pastor Lauds Morrow Here

A glowing picture of United States Senator Dwight Morrow's achievements in Mexico was painted by the Rev. Dr. Miles H. Krumbine, pastor of the Shaker Heights Community Church of Cleveland, before the Union Ministerial Association meeting in Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal Church today.

Dr. Krumbine said he was just paying tribute to a man who had accomplished much when matters looked rather black.

Dr. Ewers Tells of German Anti-Reparation Feeling

Taking the stand that she was not entirely to blame for the World War, Germany is on the verge of refusing to pay reparations, the Rev. Dr. John R. Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, declared last night, delivering the sixth of a series of talks on Germany, based on his European trip last summer.

The nation's welcome to Fascism at the recent elections was more than a mere gesture, he said.

With the middle class wiped out and the workingman forced to bear the brunt of increased taxes, it is easy to see, he said, that the people are strongly opposed to the reparations they believe to be too large. Of Communism he said:

"I do not believe that Communism will gain very much in Germany. The Germans are too much like us to make that philosophy successful."

Welfare Workers Begin Final Drive Lacking $64,800 of Goal

Workers for the Welfare Fund campaign were to swing into the final two-day stretch of their one-week campaign extension today with $64,837 of their $1,520,248 quota to raise. Collections of $23,800 over the week-end were announced today. The final meeting of the drive will be held in the William Penn Hotel Wednesday noon.

The relief fund of the East Pittsburgh Community Welfare Association was enrichened $250 today as a result of a meeting of the organization in the Borough Council chambers yesterday. Councilman Edward Narey presided.

The Chamber of Commerce gave $150, representing the balance of a fund formerly devoted to miners' relief, while the Slovak Social Club turned over $100 realized from a benefit dance held Saturday night. All civic and patriotic bodies in the borough are represented in the association, it was announced.

Two Youths Held After Auto Crash

Two men escaped today when their automobiles collided at Homewood avenue and Idlewild street and then overturned, the police reported.

Held in bail for hearings before Traffic Court Magistrate William J. Soost tomorrow on reckless driving charges, they were docketed as Raymond Gagin, 18, of 1725 Frankstown avenue, and Raymond Paige, 19, Negro, of 490 Culver street.

Pair Arrested Here On Check Charges

Said to be wanted by Baltimore (Md.) police on bad check charges, Stanley Reehling, 28, and his pretty companion, Marie Cook, 24, both of that city, were remanded to jail by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today after hearings in Central Police Court.

Detectives arrested the pair in their Avalon apartment yesterday, they reported, on request of Baltimore authorities.

1ST DEER SHOT IN COUNTY

The first deer killed in Allegheny County as the hunting season opened today was brought down near Gibsonia stop of the Butler Short Line, by J. R. Deasley, Negro, of 133 Julius street.

He had just alighted from a trolley car and was heading toward a woods when he sighted an eight-prong buck. He fired one shot from his rifle, and the deer fell. It weighed 165 pounds. Several herd of deer are said to roam the woods of the district, believed the only wild deer in Allegheny County.

AID TO CHARITY FREES PRISONER

Favors he had done for the Helping Hand, relief organization, won release in Central Police Court today for Garry Gaslington, Negro, of 11 Shomin street, accused of selling moonshine to men quartered at the organization's building in Water street.

Attorney Harry I. Miller, secretary of the Helping Hand, informed Magistrate Leo Rothenberg that the Negro had aided in preparing the building for occupancy and had done other service. Miller asked that he be given another chance, and Gaslington was discharged. Gaslington, a bootblack at the New Merchants Hotel, 439 Water street, denied peddling moonshine.

Magistrate Holds Man on Girl's Charge

Percy Cousins, 29, Negro, of 1601 Protectory place, who said he was a clearing house lottery agent, was held for court by Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court, today on two serious charges, after a 17-year-old girl had testified against him.

Dr. Duncan Sees No Gains In Ending Evening Service

The Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, last night discussed the importance of the Sunday evening service. He said in part:

"The public mind has been directed recently to the Sunday evening preaching service. Some churches have abandoned it. Some maintain it with no hope of large congregations, some have substituted a vesper service in the late afternoon and some who hold it are doubtful of its importance.

"A denominational survey was made recently by a Denver pastor. Out of 49 prominent churches of a leading denomination it was found 14 had closed their evening services, and one had changed to the afternoon hour. Practically all admitted the Sunday evening service was a problem, although some seven had evening audiences equal to those of the morning.

"We are told that with the change morning congregations will be larger, the minister will preach better, he will have more time for other important activities, and that family life will be promoted, etc. Can anyone show that there has been permanent gain? The gains, if any, will be temporary. Sunday will come to an end at the noon hour and the European Sunday, totally different from the American, will come on apace."

GOOD SIGNS CITED TO DEALERS

Chevrolet Executive Hits Gloom as He Spreads Optimism at Meet Here

A sound verbal spanking was administered to those "business pessimists who ought to know better" by W. E. Holler, assistant general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor Company, who is here heading a delegation of factory executives for the annual meeting today of 600 dealers and their associated bankers in the Pittsburgh zone.

Calling the slump during the year simply a "business lull" and a "buyers' panic," Holler said the depression has been prolonged beyond a reasonable point largely because certain persons have been thinking and talking pessimism and have by virtue of their positions attracted a public following sufficient to delay the inevitable upturn.

W. E. Holler

Holler said:

"Such an attitude is against all logic. The wailing of the professional pessimist is simply the wail of a man without gumption to stand depression.

DEPRESSION NOT NEW

"We've been through depressions before. We'll go through them again. We have to expect them every so many years. They serve a useful function in weeding out mismanaged companies, products without an honest place in our economic scheme, and policies built on unsound foundations.

"The public generally prepared for the dark days ahead by spending as little as possible.

"As a result we have had an orderly progression on one hand and fright and panic on the other. But the latter is now les pronounced. Signs of renewed buying are appearing in many lines. We have struck bottom, we are on the rebound.

"In Chevrolet we expect to aid and accelerate that improvement."

PROMOTED THIS YEAR

Holler is making his first official visit as assistant general sales manager since his promotion to that office this year. He formerly was Chevrolet zone manager in the Pittsburgh district. Today he has one of the outstanding sales jobs in any industry. On his shoulders rests an responsibility for the sale of more than 600,000 a year. A panying Pittsburgh the Monday meeting are Chevrolet central office executives C. L. Alexander, regional manager; W. G. Lewellin, sales manager; K. E. Gray, assistant manager, business management department; R. H. Fussell, sales promotion manager, Atlantic Coast region; D. L. James, parts and service manager, Atlanta region; L. F. Skutt, general manager, Motor Acounting Company, a General Motors unit, and G. F. Benhart, vice president General Motors Acceptance Corporation. Acting as their host in Pittsburgh is C. L. Milliken, Pittsburgh zone manager.

C. L. Alexander

C. L. Milliken

The meeting today is one of 50 being staged by Chevrolet in a 5-weeks period in as many key cities of the United States in an effort to apprise its dealer organization of its aggressive plans for next year. The meeting opened in the morning with a "star chamber" session with field representatives and an "open house" meeting with dealers in this district.

KLINE ADDS $41 TO $6,573 FOR UNEMPLOYED

All Will Be Given to City Welfare Bureau to Aid Needy; More Promised

Mayor Charles H. Kline today received a check for $6,573.40 for the city unemployment fund as the donation of a day's pay from each of the city firemen. To this he added his own check for $41, representing his assessment as honorary chief of the city fire department.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, announced concurrent with the firemen's donation, that a substantial check, representing three per cent of two days' receipts of McCreery & Co. had been received and will be turned over to the unemployment relief fund.

The presentation of the firemen's check was made in the executive chambers, City-County Building, by Pumpman John Heinz, president of the City Firemen's Protective Association. Fire Chief Richard L. Smith and officials of the association took part in the ceremony.

Mayor Kline will turn over the offering to the city Welfare Department, where it will be added to the unemployment fund in relieving the destitute and needy from hunger and want, he said.

During the presentation Heinz told Kline that proceeds of the Sixth Annual Firemen's ball, to be held next month in Hotel William Penn, would be donated to the unemployment fund instead of going to the firemen's pension fund.

LIBERALS HERE SPENT $12,558

The report of income and expenditures for the Liberal party fight in the Pittsburgh district was sent to Harrisburg today. George H. Stengel, treasurer, announced.

Contributions listed totaled $12,775, with expenditures set at $12,588.17.

Miss Helen Clay Frick, daughter of the former industrialist, and R. V. Bingay are listed as the largest individual contributors, $1,000 each. Mrs. Henry C. Frick gave $500, as did Joseph H. Holmes.

The Business Men's committee, represented by Francis S. Guthrie, contributed, according to the report, a total of $9,500 in seven installments.

A large list of expenditures included few large sums. Arthur M. Scully, it noted, was given $1,079.60 for advertising in mass meetings, and E. E. Roeser $1,500 and $500 for salary. Virtually all other items were below $500.

MAN GETS LIFE OVER 'HILL' KILLING

Pleads Guilty After His Testimony Saves Friend From Death in Chair

Charles Ricks, 19, a Negro, of Wylie avenue, whose testimony last week in the trial for the murder of Precinct Detective James Hughes, Negro, probably saved his companion, Denny Wilkins, Negro, from the electric chair, pleaded guilty to the murder today and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Testimony was taken to determine the degree of murder and the court fixed it at first degree. Wilkins was found guilty of first degree murder with life imprisonment.

In his previous testimony, Ricks said he and Wilkins and John Franklin, another Negro, were stopped by Hughes as they emerged from a restaurant following a Hill holdup.

Franklin, according to Ricks' story, ran behind a pole and opened fire on Hughes, who in turn directed his fire at Ricks and Wilkins. Ricks averred he fled when he heard Hughes' gun click.

A jury has been selected to try Louis Maracini, arraigned for the killing of Joseph Kubaye, Jr., of Ninth avenue, Munhall, in the shops of the Mesta Machine Company, November 16, 1929. It is charged that Maracini pressed an air hose against Kubaye. Both men were working in the shop at the time.

The present business depression has done me more good than anything else in 10 years, and to quote Chic Sale, "I'll tell you why." Hundreds of good people who have listened all their lives to malicious propaganda aimed at the dentist who advertises found themselves unable to pay the high prices asked for dental work by the non-advertiser, and with misgivings of every description took a chance (like Steve Brodie did when he jumped from the Brooklyn Bridge) and came to look my office over. Mind you, not with any intention of having any work done, but just to see what it was like. Well, to make a long story short, they got the surprise of their lives. They found one of the most modern and best appointed dental offices they had ever seen. They saw cleanliness and sanitation that ranked 100%. They received the highest class of dental work done by my dental specialists, courteous attention from everybody—lady nurses, who saw to their every comfort. They had experience with real PAINLESS DENTISTRY and it cost them from one-half to one-tenth of the price they had been paying all their lives. Is it any wonder they sang my praises? That, my friends, is the reason why I am busy while many complain of conditions. Success must be earned—come down and see how I earn it by serving you SO MUCH BETTER THAN YOU HAVE EVER BEEN SERVED BEFORE!

AMONG MY PATRENTS ARE:

*Bank Vice Presidents Factory Superintendents
Manufacturers Credit Managers
Bank Employes in every position from Vice President down
Chain Store Managers Downtown Dept. Store Heads
Ministers Police Dept. High-up Officials Lawyers*

In fact, every walk of life is represented—and perfectly satisfied. Most of them declaring, "Never again will I believe the Dental propaganda that says you can't get good dental work from an advertising dentist . . . at least, not as it applies to Dr. Shor."

Don't confuse Dr. Shor with the ordinary type that advertise and imitate my methods.

ROBBERS REAP $3,000 WEEK-END HARVEST, 4 SUSPECTS HELD

TWO VICTIMS, ATTACKED, IN HOSPITALS

Man Slugged, One Slashed; Pitt Student's Bag Taken; Burglaries Add to Toll

Loot totaling more than $3,000 was obtained by bandits and thieves in a series of hold-ups and robberies in the Pittsburgh district over the week-end.

Two men attacked by Negroes were in hospitals today, one with a long cut on his neck, the other with a probable fracture of the skull. Four men, arrested as bandit suspects, were being held for questioning.

ROBBED OF WATCH

Joseph Barshek, 45, of 178 Thirty-fourth street, was in West Penn Hospital with a probable skull fracture suffered when attacked by two Negroes, who robbed him of his watch, valued at $20, last night.

The same pair, police said, slashed Steve Ossovich, 38, of 2 Hazlett way, when he resisted them in Penn avenue, near Thirty-fourth street, early yesterday. Ossovich, cut on the neck, is in St. Francis Hospital. He was on his way to work when attacked.

Manny Blatts, of Freedom, a University of Pittsburgh student, was robbed of a handbag containing clothing and articles valued at $200 while sitting in the waiting room of a bus station in Liberty avenue.

TAXI DRIVER HELD UP

Three Negroes robbed Charles McCawley, of 333 Melwood street, a taxicab driver, of $9 at Rose and Elmore streets, last night. They engaged the cab in Francis street.

A thug held up Samuel Rumsbaugh, of 625 Brushton avenue, attendant in the A. D. Miller Sons Company gasoline station, at Columbus and Preble avenues, and escaped with $40 last night. Of the sum, $13 was taken from Rumsbaugh's pocket.

The four bandit suspects arrested by the special detail of police patroling the streets since the middle of last week, when the reign of banditry began docketed as Louis Buirch, 22, of Rush street; Charles Gillespie, 21, of Monterey street; Jack Warrick, 22, of Raleigh street, and Howard Howser, 23, of 919 Federal street.

CONFESSION REPORTED

Buirch was alleged to have attempted to hold up the jewelry store of S. H. Meyers, of 1810 Beaver avenue. Gillespie and Warrick, police said admitted taking part in 17 robberies. The officers reported the pair attempted to hold up the Liberty Restaurant at 925 Federal street. Later police arrested Howser, as their accomplice, they said.

Fur coats valud at $10,000 and jewelry valued at $3,000 were passed up by thieves who, in their haste, apparently were satisfied with the purses of four women of a party of 16 playing bridge in the apartment of Mrs. Sol Black, at 1249 Illinois avenue, Dormont, Saturday night. The women were playing in an adjoining room.

LOOT IN HOLDUPS

Holdups reported to police over the week-end were:

Jacob Goldstein and Victor Gordon, both of 604 Chislett street. An armed trio took $786 from Goldstein and $186 from Gordon.

Myer Shapiro, of 15 Davenport street, robbed of $43 by two Negroes at Logan and Clark streets.

Myer Swartz, of 39 Reed street, robbed of $150 by a thug near his home.

O. E. Suenson, of 401 Kathleen street, robbed of $63 by two men near his home.

Philip Robins, of 1019 Main street, Aliquippa, robbed of $100 by three men in Highland Park.

Leo Tomsich, robbed of $13 by a bandit pair in his store at 5624 Keystone street.

HOMES ROBBED

Places entered and robbed over the week-end, according to police, were:

SCHOOL FORMS TRAFFIC COURT

A government within a government is the Traffic Court and code of the Most Holy Name School, Tinsbury street, Troy Hill.

For, besides the ordinary state and municipal traffic laws, which must be obeyed, students there must obey an additional set of rules. They must not jay walk; "hopping trucks" is forbidden; throwing refuse and papers on the street or school grounds is a serious offense; talking in ranks is just as bad as writing on buildings with chalk and writing on buildings with chalk is a punishable offense.

Violators are tried in a student court, modeled on the lines of a city magistrate's court. There they are brought by any of the 37 patrolmen, picked from their ranks, and tried by George Ball, captain of the boys, as magistrate and Beatrice Repholz, captain of the girls, as associate magistrate.

Penalties? Staying after school for a period of three to 30 days, depending on the sentence passed by the Sisters of Notre Dame, after trial in a court.

Safety Policeman George W. Huff, of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, organized the system, with the aid of the Sisters, last year, when motorists complained that children of the neighborhood ignored safety rules and risked their lives.

Steady Run Closes Bank in Illinois

MARION, Ill., Dec. 1.—(INS.)—One of the oldest banks in Southeastern Illinois, the Marion First National Bank, will not open its doors today, W. L. Dunston, director, announced. The institution had deposits totaling more than $2,000,000 before a steady run of withdrawals placed the bank's cash on hand below federal requirements, Director Dunston stated.

Hunt for Vanished Contractor Fails

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Mystery surrounding the disappearance of William H. Vanderberry, 42, contractor, still baffled local police today after a search over the week-end failed to produce any traces.

Vanderberry was last seen Saturday morning while carrying a $600 payroll with which he intended to pay his employes on a building operation in Merion.

BLUE LAW HITS CHARITY SHOW

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Acting under the 1794 blue laws, police last night stopped a motion picture show at the Kent Theater, held under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to aid the city's unemployed, dispersed the audience and arrested three persons.

War veterans said a police permit for the entertainment had been obtained several days ago but that later it was cancelled after a delegation of ministers had protested to Director of Public Safety Schofield.

Members of the American Legion posts joined forces with sponsors of the show and, led by a band playing "Onward Christian Soldiers," marched to the theater. When the doors opened police were swept aside and about 1,000 entered the theater. More police were sent and, after they threatened to tear down the screen, the sponsors of the show agreed to call it off. Those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct.

Bucharest Closes Shops in Tax Fight

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Most of the merchants in the business section of the city closed their stores this morning as a protest against what they call "excessive government taxations."

TRAIN WRECK PLOT FOILED

REDDING, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The report of an attempt either to wreck or to intercept and rob Southern Pacific passenger train No. 13 near Sims, Cal., was being investigated by the sheriff's office today.

As the train neared this point Saturday night, the engineer saw a pile of ties on the track. He slowed down, but had too much momentum to stop.

The locomotive crashed through the obstruction without being derailed. Fearing outlaws might board the train, the engineer opened the throttle and sped on.

This train, which runs between Portland, Ore., and San Francisco, was robbed eight years ago at the Oregon line by the D'Autremont brothers. Four members of the train crew were killed in that robbery.

Run Down by Auto, Man May Lose Leg

Facing possible amputation of his left leg, fractured when he was struck by an automobile while walking near Duquesne Bridge, McKeesport, yesterday, William Gebhardt, 39, of 2815 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, was reported in a critical condition in McKeesport Hospital. Police said John Tomka, of 539 Indiana avenue, Glassport, drove the automobile.

Narcotic Chief Ends Visit Here

Harry J. Anslinger, commissioner of the bureau of narcotics, returned to Washington last night after a two-day visit of inspection here, and a conference with William T. Duffy, in charge of narcotics in this district. Anslinger, was appointed to his new post in September.

PENNA. HISTORY PLANS MADE

A comprehensive search into the history of Western Pennsylvania will be started in the next few months under the joint patronage of the Buhl Foundation, the University of Pittsburgh and the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society.

A total of $105,000 will be expended on the subject in the next five years, $70,000 of this coming from the Buhl Foundation, $25,000 from the university and $10,000 from the historical society. A board of control will consist of Judge Robert M. Ewing, Judge A. B. Reid, Charles W. Dahlinger, John E. Potter and one other to represent the historical society, and Dr. John W. Oliver, Dr. Lee Paul Seig, Chancellor John G. Bowman and one other representing the university. A curator, who will be a professor in the university, will be appointed.

Argentine Goes On Daylight Time For Summer

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—It's summer now in the Argentine, so at midnight clocks were set ahead one hour for daylight saving time. Buenos Aires is now two hours ahead of Eastern Standard time in the United States.

This is the first time Argentina has had daylight saving. The time will operate from December 1 to March 31.

GIRL RUNAWAY TAKES POISON

Amelia Trabasso, 17, of 1314 Columbus avenue, a runaway, found apparently seriously ill at Fulton and Pennsylvania avenues last night and taken to St. John's Hospital, admitted in Morals Court today that she had swallowed iodine because she feared to return home and face her "big brother."

She left home two weeks ago, she testified. She was turned over to Juvenile Court authorities.

CAR, TRAIN HIT; MAN INJURED

Frank Langer, of Washington road, Bridgeville, was injured last night when his automobile, driven by his wife, crashed into an eastbound passenger train as the locomotive was slowing to a stop at the Bridgeville Station.

According to attaches of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the woman was flagged by a watchman on duty, but did not stop her car. She was removed to a local physician's office where she was reported uninjured. Her husband was taken to the Mercy Hospital suffering from internal injuries.

400 Tons of Coal Given for Needy

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Richard Matucci, manager of the Wheeling-Glenwood Coal Company, announced a gift of 400 tons of coal to the needy of this district. He estimated the amount would be sufficient for 200 families during the winter months. Distribution of the coal has been placed in the hands of Mayor Thomas Y. Beckett. The coal will be delivered to the homes, Matucci said.

'BOZO' LAVERY TO QUIT AS SLEUTH

Walsh Awaits Resignation After Officer Has Tiff With Engelsberg on 'Hill'

Precinct Detective Joseph (Bozo) Lavery today announced to close associates he was "through with the force forever," Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh said he was informed. Lavery's resignation has not yet been received at Walsh's office, the superintendent said, and unless it is forthcoming before Wednesday, he will face charges of conduct unbecoming to an officer.

Lavery was suspended after he is alleged to have used "blue language" to a superior officer. The "superior officer" later turned out to be Joseph Englesberg, Third Ward Republican chairman. Lavery said he denounced Englesberg after his brother, Lieut. William J. Lavery, drew a suspension when 105 gallons of moonshine disappeared following a Hill district raid.

Lieut. Lavery has been transferred from his regular command at Center avenue station to Squirrel Hill. Englesberg is credited with engineering the transfer, it is said.

Lieut. Michael Murphy has been shifted from Squirrel Hill station to Center avenue to succeed Lavery.

Lieut. Frank Shine, who was sent to Lavery's place on the Hill, is now back in his East End position.

MAN FINED $25 OVER CHILD

After the mother of an 8-year-old girl had testified against him in Morals Court today, Raymond Clark, 31, of 5955 Alder street, was fined $25 with the alternative of 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate T. D. Jones today. He had bought the child candy and had asked to take her to play at a miniature golf course, the mother said. He admitted going to the child's home, but denied making statements attributed to him by the mother.

PARKED CAR HIT, MAN INJURED

Robert Zeigler, 26, of 209 West Woodford avenue, was taken to the South Side hospital suffering lacerations and shock and Raymond Zeigler, 23, of the same address, was arrested on a reckless driving charge after their automobile, police said, crashed into the car of Lt. Paul Berman on Brownsville road last night. Berman had his car parked, and the impact knocked it to the sidewalk, 15 feet below, the police reported.

One Fare for Food

How distribution costs have been cut

A&P brings food to your table on a straight line from the sources. That is why A&P food costs so little. Its price is not taxed by the expense of roundabout journeys. There are no road-side bills to pay.

The shortest road, unobstructed by half-way houses, is the A&P route to its stores. That is why A&P can pay growers and other producers well, yet charge its customers very low prices.

American statesmen say our big country's hardest problem is how to cut "the high cost of distribution." What they mean is that too much money is spent on the usually long road between the field and the consumer.

A&P has solved this problem for people who buy in its stores by providing direct rapid transit for food at one small fare.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENING

Plan Dance For School Players

Now that the rollicking month of December is here, of course the approaching Yuletide dominates everything. Everyone's shopping, and everyone's attending party after party, and, especially the debutante set, is anticipating the appearance of college boy players during the holiday fortnight.

The Williams College Players will appear in the Twentieth Century Club on Monday evening, December 29, in a Christopher Morley play, and after the play there'll be a dance. H. Fred Mercer, Jr., is chairman for the Pittsburgh appearance.

Of course you recall that the Princeton Triangle Club will give "The Tiger Smiles," at Syria Mosque January 2. After the play the Princeton men will be guests at the ball the Thomas J. McKays will give in the Twentieth Century Club in honor of their daughter, Elisabeth, who made her debut in June.

Players To Dance

Pittsburgh men with the company are Samuel P. Harbison, son of the Ralph W. Harbisons, of Sewickley; John W. Brittingham and John H. Hillman III, son of John H. Hillman, Jr.

On Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Rolling Rock Hunt will meet at the Golden Barn, near the clubhouse. Other fixtures for the month are Saturday, John Darr's farm at 2:30 o'clock; December 10, Loyalhanna Bridge, 2:30 o'clock; December 13, Zion Church at 2:30 o'clock; December 17, at the kennels, at 2:30 o'clock; December 20, Weaver's Mill, Pa., at 2:30 o'clock.

CLOSE-FITTING HATS TO BE POPULAR FOR WINTER WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—As the season advances hats close in upon us, which means that hats are closer fitting than ever. We hug to our hearts the hat that so prettily hugs our heads giving us a most youthfully jaunty look. It really seems a shame that so many lovely models are buried away in the depths of an importantly large fur collar, but the axiom seems to be the bigger the collar the bigger in chic the little hat. There is an abundant choice of fabrics and variety of detail. Tweeds, felts, wool and silk tricots, fur antelopes and velvet, all these are good just now. Nearly all the caps and berets are worn far off the forehead, a style that needs a costume of perfection if it is really to look well. Otherwise there is a careless note about a woman wearing a cap in such a manner. Bright little feather fancies are fancied by milliners here and are enthusiastically accepted and worn. Many hats have fur trimming tying up the fur on coat or suit. Others modestly content themselves with a jeweled clip, that is if there is anything shrinking about a jeweled ornament.

AND NOW FOR the latest caps, a trio of them. The sketch to the left depicts a Reboux model, a close-fitting little cap of dark green and white tweed felt, very supple, with an uneven knotty thread worked through it. The fabric is closely fitted to the head by means of four raised seams converging at the center front where a tiny flat feather ornament is poised, gay in its bright colorings.

TO THE LEFT of the other sketch is a Reboux beret in dark brown velvet with a triangular inset of brick colored velvet. Draped closely to the forehead is a band of sand-colored crepe with brown velvet in tiny seed-shaped reliefs. The third model is also by the inventive Reboux. It is a red wool tricot turban wrapped closely about the head. Placed vertically at the back and very slightly to one side is a ring of black astrakan. Quite the latest in halos, especially the Botticelli type of halo.

FEDERAL BARGE LINE RATES HELD UNFAIR

Warehousemen's Head Takes Issue With Statements Made by W. M. Jacoby

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—Charging government operation of the Federal Barge Line at 20 per cent less than railroad freight rates as unfair competition that is even injuring the warehouse business, R. W. Dietrich, chairman of the American Warehousemen's Association committee, today answered Wilmer M. Jacoby, of Pittsburgh, who recently upheld the project.

Citing that Jacoby answered the protest of President Daniel Willard, of the B. & O. Railroad, by asserting the government would only operate the Federal Barge Line until the feasibility of the line was proven, Dietrich said:

"There is no real public necessity for such development with government funds. The very fact that these waterways transportation projects are being operated by the government is evidence there is no public need for same; otherwise, private investors would have met the need long ago.

"The railroad, a portion of whose taxes support its governmental competitor, must in addition thereto divide its freight traffic with this competitor. Too, we find the barge line competing with public warehouse industry by granting free storage and free handling, in some cases, amounting to more than one-half of the freight rate."

U. S. AID GIVEN STATE ROADS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The state of Pennsylvania completed during the last year a total of 274.3 miles of Federal-aid highways, representing an outlay of $15,902,008, according to the annual report of Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads. The report revealed that the Senate, in its highway construction program, utilized $4,439,697 of Federal-aid highway funds. All the mileage completed represented new construction and have unfinished work brought over from the previous year.

For the country at large a total of 9,328 miles of new construction was completed, costing $193,648,148, of which $82,158,756 was derived from Federal-aid funds.

The institute will consist of lectures, discussions and moving pictures. The subjects covered being the Biology of Sex, Normal Ideals of Sex Life, Venereal Disease Control and Prevention, clinics for diagnosis and treatment of venereal diseases, Legal Aspects of the Social Hygiene Movement.

Hollenbeck Named Legion Welfare Head

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Charles I. Engard, commander of the Pennsylvania Department, American Legion, has announced the appointment of Edwin E. Hollenback, Philadelphia, as national chairman of the child welfare committee of the American Legion, and David B. Simpson, Erie, Pa., as a member of the national employment commission of the legion.

Has to Keep on Her Feet

"My work is keeping a rooming house in New York and I have to keep on my feet. I was weak and tired and didn't seem to feel well at all. Some of my friends told me how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was and I decided to try it. I took it four times a day and it helped me very much. I feel better in all ways now."—Mrs. Marie Vriesenga, 2002 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

Child Star and Veteran Signed to Co-Star In New Film

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Features.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.

One of the most unusual cases of billing that Hollywood has seen will find Leon Errol and Mitzi Green co-starred in Paramount's production of "The Haddocks."

Errol is a veteran of stage and screen, while Mitzi still is a child performer, albeit the cleverest one in Hollywood today.

"The Haddocks" will be the talkie name of Donald Ogden Stewart's humorous volume, "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad."

Leon Errol

Besides Errol and Mitzi Green, it will enlist the services of Lilyan Tashman and Regis Toomey.

ALL OF THAT

A Hollywood writer approached Frank Albertson for some information. "You're in the know at Fox," he yessed.

"Til say I am," replied Frank. "Every time my name is mentioned over there, somebody says no."

AND THEY SHOT LINCOLN!

A sweet young thing was walking up the aisle during the intermission at Fox's fantasy of 1980, "Just Imagine."

She looked up mellingly at her escort.

"Don't you think it's just a little far-fetched?" she asked.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Here's a story that should top all others about California sunshine. One day this week, the home of B. P. Schulberg, Paramount executive, caught fire from the rays of the sun striking a glass ornament in the library. And this in November.

CAST FOR THRILLER

While the search is still on for an actor to portray the Chinese detective hero of "Charlie Chan Carries on," Fox is shaping up the rest of the cast for this picture.

Marguerite Churchill is to play the heroine and Marjorie White and Warren Hymer will provide comedy. Other players assigned include George Brent, (from Broadway); Jason Robards, who hasn't been seen much on the screen lately, and John Garrick.

Marguerite Churchill

There was talk of Leo Carrillo playing Charlie Chan, but nothing has come of it to date.

KEEPING IT DARK

Although R-K-O is mum about the project, it is whispered about that Harry Hoyt is nearly ready to start shooting on his novel talkie, "Creation."

In this picture, the prehistoric monsters of "The Lost World" will live on the talking screen. Hoyt and the same crew who worked with him on the memorable film have been experimenting for several months in the perfection of these animals, and in the problems of creating sound effects.

"The Lost World" was one of the most striking films ever made. Hoyt's new one is, as the title suggests, a story of the dawn of history.

BACK TO SCREEN

After a number of stage ventures, Wallace MacDonald will return to the screen as the second male lead in Tiffany's "Drums of Jeopardy." Others on this Harold McGrath thriller include June Collyer and Lloyd Hughes.

COMEDIES AND REVUE IN BILLS OF WEEK

"June Moon," comedy by Ring Lardner and George S. Kaufman, with Harry Rosenthal heading the cast, will be seen in the Shubert Alvin, opening tonight.

The succeeding attraction in the Alvin will be "Berkeley Square," by John L. Balderson, with Leslie Howard and Margalo Gillmore in the leading roles. Seats Thursday.

"The Garrick Gaieties," Theater Guild revue, comes to the Nixon tonight, for a week, with the usual matinees.

Next week the Nixon offering will be "Sweet Adeline," musical romance produced by Arthur Hammerstein. The seat sale opens Thursday.

"She Got What She Wanted" will be the George Sharp Players' production in the Pitt for the week beginning tonight.

Bell Co. Acquires McMurray System

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—All physical property of the McMurray Telephone Company, serving a large number of patrons in Northeastern Washington County, will be acquired today by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. It will be under the supervision of the local office.

Paderewski Gives Concert Tonight

Paderewski, famous pianist, will give a recital in Syria Mosque tonight. It is two years since he has been heard here.

Prodigy

Ruggiero Ricci, phenomenal 10-year-old boy violinist, will appear as soloist with the Cleveland Orchestra in Syria Mosque, Friday night and Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association.

27th Ward Women To Meet Tonight

The Woman's Community Association, Twenty-seventh Ward, meets tonight in the auditorium of the John Morrow School, Davis avenue, with the program in charge of Mrs. Harry Kohler and Mrs. W. C. Bletcher. The speaker will be Mrs. George Bray, corresponding secretary Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Washington Banks Distribute $239,391

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—Banks of Washington this week will distribute $239,391.02 to 4,709 persons, only $491.98 less than the amount distributed during 1929. The banner year for this form of thrift here was 1928.

BERT LYTELL TALKIE AND STAGE ACTS IN HARRIS

Bert Lytell's talkie, "Brothers," and five vaudeville acts feature the new bill in the Harris.

The film has Mr. Lytell in a dual role, that of twin brothers who are reared in contrasting environments. One is brought up in a good atmosphere and he turns out bad. The other is brought up in a bad atmosphere and he turns out good.

The melodramatics are plentiful. Murder is done and a dramatic court trial follows. But there is a great big rainbow in the form of a big wedding at the finale.

The picture is based on the stage play that Mr. Lytell presented in the Nixon last season.

The vaudeville features Duddy Doyle, who's been in the Vitaphone Varieties; Frank Vida, who juggles a feather on his nose; Master and Gautier, a couple of clowning lads; Peggy Hoover and the Small Brothers, and Chisholm and Breen in what they call "Frozen Romance."

Piano Quintet, Op. 81 ..... Dvorak

The Yost String Quartet gave the opening concert of its series in Schenley ballroom yesterday afternoon before the large membership of the Pittsburgh Chamber Music Society. These are doubtless among the pleasantest musical events in this city, and one always comes away from these concerts with the assurance that one has heard unfamiliar compositions.

J. Fred Lissfelt

Rudolph Ganz, pianist and conductor, was assisting soloist, playing in the Dvorak Quintet and a group of Debussy. If he was to play solo, then the pianist was wise in choosing Debussy to keep somewhat in the tone of quartet music, but the group was too long and only here and there gave the least inkling of Debussy. Ganz is a player of classics, and it would have been a surprise had he been able to exclude his feeling for Beethoven while paying homage to the eminent Frenchman. In the more impressionistic tone poems there was an astonishing lack of delicate color, but broad humor made Pickwick and General Lavine plausible.

In the Dvorak, Ganz was entirely himself again, directing the quartet towards its very best playing, and furnishing a vigorous background in the piano. Several dead spots might have been considerably enlivened with extra rehearsal, for the entire ensemble seemed occasionally unaware of definite purpose.

The coming of Samuel Kliatchko as new cellist into the quartet has had its effect. In the Haydn he did much towards volume of tone, and in the Dvorak melodies the easy sweep of his bow helped many a cantilena.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, by Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Well, I've lost another friend . . . Maybe ten of them—but so-called friends, at any rate . . . I promised a fortnight ago I would go to Camden and be one of the freaks that the people come to ogle . . . It was for a worthy cause, it appears . . . All causes are worthy, of course . . . But when I promised to go there I didn't know that I would be feeling this low . . . That my body would ache so . . . That my babies would be stricken, and that things would develop to remind me that sickness could happen to anyone! . . . So, I guess down at Camden I'm a big no-good . . . Perhaps the Camden audience didn't care at all . . . All I do when I want to dismiss what anyone thinks of me—is to look on my wall where I have pasted newspaper clippings of the late William Boeths, Jimmy Hussey and Jack Donahue—particularly the clipping about Donahue—which is sub-titled, "He tried to do too much."

I thought all the phonies were on Broadway until this particular night . . . Some of them, it seems, comes from Mass. . . . The "Mayor" of one town, for example . . . Dolled up in his bib 'n' and whites and hogging the center of the night club dancing floor, with a clarker in this paw, and a bottle of something in this one, he had himself a time . . . Whoopeee! . . . Some fun! . . . Then when his bill of $12.60 came he was insulted . . . His pockets revealed seven pennies . . . They handed him a terrific lacing, the dope . . . He probably wasn't a mayor of anything, although his companions said he was . . . Wonder what prompts people to make such saps of themselves? . . . And beg for the murderous wallops of bouncers? . . . God, how they punched him! . . . Then they emptied the jeans of his companions until they collected $12.60 and tossed them all out on their ears . . . I'm glad I can't enjoy booze . . . It makes me sleepy, anyhow . . . Or brings on a crying jag, as they call it . . . Maybe the real reason I hate it is that I know of too many boys and girls who almost amounted to something, but the giggle milk craze interrupted their careers . . . I never did agree with Robert Louis Stevenson's "It is better to be a fool than be dead."

I wish some of the lads on the staffs of the rags that handle my stuff would help me a little—and eliminate any news items that might have appeared in earlier editions via the wire services . . . Before they syndicated my hooey and I had a "beat" it was scoopee for the rag I was on, at any rate . . . Nowadays, an exclusive line lasts ten minutes . . . If the Associated Press, International News Service, or the others get a confirmation or denial the same day I come out with it, they shoot it to California, and all other towns, and make me look ridiculous a few days later . . . In those rags that get me by air mail, I mean.

So George White joins the Theater League, after all . . . After all the money he spent advertising its faults and why he was opposed to it . . . I think Cohan got a shady deal from the Government, at that . . . As if George Cohan would tell a tie to the America he has served so faithfully . . . So they are going to clip him for $400,000—income tax "arrears" . . . That's what he gets for being a "Yankee Doodle" boy and making America famous . . . As if money means a thing to George . . . He has more down-and-outers on his list than the Salvation Army . . . A regular payroll for actors and others who get a weekly check from him so that they might not have to stand in a breadline . . . That $400,000 they are taking from George burns me up . . . The coin he made from "Over There" saved more lives and kept more people from going hungry than any ten philanthropists anyone might mention . . . Talk about republics being ungrateful. Didn't someone say that it might be truer to say they are forgetful; and that history never forgets and never forgives?

Maybe if I leave out the "Things I Never Knew Till Now" col'm this week, I'll find out whether anyone cares or not . . . One more radio broadcast and then a chance to start catching my breath again for a change . . . It is all so tiresome—this incessant and monotonous routine every day of snapping out of a sound "sleep"—then into a cab—thence to the office, then another cab, the barber's, the restaurant, the theater, the cab again, the office for a play review or another column, the cab again—the night clubs, the speaks, the dives, the joints, the Abbeys, the Gulnan's, et cetera, where they sit, sit, sit, sit, sit and drink, drink, drink, drink, drink and talk nothings and wait for consumption to catch up to them . . . In places where it is against the law to open a window for fear the fresh air will sober them up and make they realize that they are a little mad . . . Yet none of the suggestions offered as antidotes in the past ten Summers and Winters ever interested me . . . Maybe it is because I have seen every State in the Union and practically every leading city, and many of the smaller towns, and found them just as drab . . . Who was it that longed "to tear down this tiresome old sky?"

KILLS BROTHER, BLAMES FIGHT

TOWANDA, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Henry Barterish, 30, of Ulster, near here, today shot and killed his brother, Ferdinand, 21, and surrendered to police here, saying he killed the younger man in self-defense.

Police said Barterish told them he and his brother had been drinking in their home last night and quarreled. During the controversy, he said, Ferdinand struck him over the head with a bottle, rendering him unconscious for several hours.

When he regained consciousness, Henry told police, he obtained surgical treatment and he and Ferdinand again quarreled. This time, he said, Ferdinand threatened him with a gun and he took the weapon from him and shot him.

Child Burned, Dies Soon After Mother

HATBORO, Pa., Dec. 1.—Tragedy enveloped the home of George Roberts today for the second time within the past few weeks.

Recently his wife died, leaving their three small children motherless. Yesterday Betty Jane Roberts, 4, was playing near the furnace in the basement when her clothing became ignited and she was fatally burned.

Church at Bellevue To Hold Visitation

Wednesday night prayer services in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church are to be supplanted by visitation by groups of special workers under the general direction of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John B. Magee. Following a devotional service lasting 15 minutes, asignments for calling will be given out and calls will be made on the sick, shut-ins and newcomers in the community.

Baltimore and Ohio Installs New Cars

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad officials today announced the installation of some of the 50 new individual seat coaches on some of their regular trains. When the installation is complete the total of the new type of coach in service will be 89.

TRACE OF GIANT RACE FOUND

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Discovery of remains of what was believed to be a hitherto unknown race of giants has been disclosed by J. E. Coker, of Sayopa, Sonora, a mining town 300 miles south of the Mexican border.

Coker, a mining engineer, said laborers, clearing ranch land near the Yaqui River in the vicinity of Sayopa, dug into an old cemetery where bodies of men averaging eight feet in height were found buried tier on tier.

The heads of the ancient skeletons, Coker said, were especially large. Carved native stone bracelets were found on the bones.

Beside the bodies, Coker said, the crudest kind of stone weapons and implements were buried.

Patton to Speak On Glass Making

Edward L. Patton, of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, will give an illustrated lecture at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock tonight. He will speak on "Glass and Paint as It Applies to the Average Layman." Motion pictures on the manufacture of glass and paint will be used. Opportunities for questions will be given.

Mrs. Scripps Leaves Millions in Will

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Petition for probate of the will of Mrs. Nackie Scripps, widow of E. W. Scripps, millionaire newspaper publisher, who died recently on her ranch at Miramar, near here, has been filed in Superior Court. Most of the estate was left to Nackie Scripps Measley, a daughter. Disposition of a $1,000,000 trust fund also was arranged in the will. Mrs. Scripps' attorney hesitated to estimate the value of the estate other than to say it amounted to several million dollars. Robert Paine Scripps, a son of the deceased, was appointed executor.

Irish Victory Earned. Discovery of Levey.
Play Superior Game. Hockey Club Improved.
Getto's Fine Coaching. Rub-Down Held Harmful.

NOTRE DAME'S FINAL HURDLE HARDEST

THE MERE FACT that Frank Carideo succeeded in kicking goal for the extra point after touchdown, whereas Broshus failed at a similar undertaking for the Army, because the Rockne forwards broke through and smothered him, would have entitled Notre Dame to its victory in Chicago last Saturday, a victory that kept the record of the Irish unblemished by a defeat or a tie in two years and lengthened their string of triumphs to 18 in succession. For the point after touchdown is just as much a part of the game as the touchdown itself. But aside from that there were several other things that made the South Benders deserving of the decision. They did most of the forcing and ground gaining, kept the Cadets on the defensive the greater part of the time, had the best punter of the day in Carideo, and in general played the superior game. Despite the narrowness of the scoring margin, there is no doubt that the better team won. The score probably would have been larger on a dry field.

Frank Carideo

The toughest hurdle of all will confront Notre Dame in the closing game with Southern California in Los Angeles next Saturday. Beating the powerful Trojans, who gave the Irish their last defeat, 27 to 14, on December 8, 1928, would be a tough job even with conditions equal, and it is made all the more difficult for Rockne's warriors by the long trip, the change of climate and the task of playing three hard games in 15 days. But they have shown enough exceptional class to warrant their being considered equal to the big contest until it had actually been proved that they can't get away with it.

ONE OF PITT'S former grid stars, Mike Getto, of Jeannette, all-American tackle in 1927, shares in the glory that has come to the University of Kansas in the winning of the Big Six Conference championship. Mike is line coach at Kansas, and the success of his team in scaling the championship heights is evidence that he did a swell job.

"Am feeling as proud as a peacock," Getto writes, "since our boys took over Missouri, our biggest and keenest rival, by a score of 32 to 0, giving us first place in the Big Six Conference. We lost only to Nebraska in the Conference. Missouri recently played a tie with Nebraska, and, naturally, we expected a hard game, but our boys were clicking to the minute and we just outplayed them in all departments."

MIKE DOESN'T MENTION his own part in the achievement, but reports of the game show that the triumph of Kansas was due in no small measure to the splendid work done by the Jeannette man in coaching the forwards.

Kansas made 23 first downs to Missouri's six, and the strength of the line that Getto turned out is attested by the fact that Missouri had to take to the air to gain, no fewer than five of its six first downs being made on forward passes.

Mike Getto

NATURALLY, IT IS what a boy shows on the diamond that wins promotion for him in baseball, but Jimmy Levey, who has starred in the backfield of the Majestics in independent football circles hereabouts this fall, and who is slated to play shortstop for the St. Louis American League club next baseball season, is an exception. It was football that launched him upon his baseball career. He turned two touchdowns into a major league job. The occasion was a gridiron game in St. Louis in 1926, in which Levey, playing for the Quantico Marines against Washington University, made a run of 65 yards for a touchdown and then scored again on a second brilliant dash of 75 yards.

AMONG THE SPECTATORS was Willis Johnson, a former football writer and secretary of the Browns. Impressed by Levey's play, he sought out the coach of the Quantico team after the game and inquired about the youngster, more as a student of football than as a practical baseball man. "If you think Levey can play football you ought to see him playing shortstop on a baseball field," said the coach.

"I have never watched a man so fast in covering ground."

Johnson reported his discovery to two of the Brown officials, who were put on Levey's trail, and eventually he was signed to a contract. Two years pased before Levey got out of the Marine Corps, when the St. Louis club sent him to Tulsa in the Western League for development in 1929. Last season he was shifted to Wichita Falls in the Texas League and came along so rapidly that the Browns required him in the fall, with the result that he showed up so well in a few eight major league games that he is slated to start as the Browns' regular shortstop next spring, Ralph Kress moving over to second base.

THIS WEEK WILL witness the final preparations of eight star players in billiard players for the world championship tournament which will open in New York next Monday, continuing to December 18. The contestants will be Ralph Greenleaf, present champion; Frank Taberski, of Schenectady; Erwin Rudolph and Pasquale Natalie, of Chicago; Arthur Woods, of New York; Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn; Benny Allen, of Kansas City, and Thomas Boatman, of Portland, Ore.

Greenleaf, Taberski, Rudolph and Lauri were automatic qualifiers, and the four others qualified by winning the recent sectional tournaments held throughout the country. All games will be at 125 points, and first prize will be worth $8,500, exclusive of a share of the gate receipts, this being made up of a cash award of $2,500 and a salary of $6,000 for one year, paid by the National Billiard Association of America. Joseph Ferguson, of New York, has been selected as referee.

Ralph Greenleaf

A SOCCER VETERAN writes: "As an amateur and professional for a period of more than 18 years in the British Isles, I am disgusted with the way soccer games have been handled by some of the referees in this district who feared to assert their authority in stopping rough and unethical tactics because a certain team or player was what they call a tough egg. In the first place men who played the game should not attempt to officiate, and even granting that they understand the rules though they never played, they should not be so weak in their rulings as to permit foul playing without penalizing the offenders. In my days, it was the custom to warn and penalize for a first offense; to give a final caution and penalize for a second offense, and to penalize the offender's team and order the offending individual off the field for a third offense. During the 23 years I have been in this country, I have spent money and time in promoting the game in Chicago, Detroit, Newark (N. J.) and Binghamton, and now that I am located in Pittsburgh I feel a keen interest in the fostering of Association football in this territory. A great deal can be done toward this end. Association football is a scientific game, properly played, developing skill and speed, but suppressing foul and rough tactics."

EVEN AFTER THE Yellow Jackets had lost four games in a row, local hockey fans remained strongly confident that Roy Schooley would get a winner together in due time, and the improved showing of the club in its last two games indicates that their faith was not misplaced.

Judging from its success in getting a tie and a victory the last two times out, the home team is now headed in the right direction. A series of changes bringing in new players has added a lot of strength,

GOOD LINEMEN AGAIN SCARCE, POP FINDS

By GLENN WARNER,
Stanford University Coach,
Member All-America Board of Football.
(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

Choosing an all-star team of the Pacific Coast presents all of the old difficulties and perhaps a few new ones this year. In my opinion, the first team line is practically a "natural," principally because the men I have selected stand out above the others. However, selecting the first backfield is a much more difficult matter owing to the wealth of great backfield material on the coast this year.

Glenn Warner

As a whole, the situation is almost exactly the same this season as it was last year. Outstanding ends, tackles and guards are rather scarce, although there are a few very good men in each of these positions. There are several good centers, of about equal ability. Quarterbacks of high caliber are not present in large numbers, but halfbacks and fullbacks are extremely plentiful.

As usual, I have consulted officials, coaches, newspapermen and radio announcers in making my selections and have seen most of the players in action at one time or another. I have tried to base my judgment upon the season's play rather than on only one or two games. In some cases, I have shifted men from their own positions because they are better than candidates at these places. Several high-class players, Hufford, of Washington, for instance, have not been considered because they have been out most of the season with injuries.

ARBELBIDE PICKED

Arbelbide and Ebding are awarded the first team end positions. They are big, fast and aggressive and valuable on offense as well as defense. McKalip is practically the equal of this pair and was relegated to the second team only after considerable thought. Wilcox would be a good running mate for McKalip. Lenfesty and Maskel would be acceptable on any team.

Edwards and Schwegler stand out above all of the other tackles. Each is big and powerful and knows football. This is as good a pair of defensive tackles as the coast has seen in some time. Next in line are Ahlskog and Hall, who, although not the equal of the others, are really fine tackles. Christensen and Shuler are not far behind Ahlskog and Hall.

Baker is one of the best interfering guards I have seen and plenty strong on defense. Beckett is another fine running guard and almost Baker's equal. Fisher and Colbert are chosen on the second team for consistently good work all season. Jones probably is the best man in U. C. L. A.'s line and Lappenbusch was a terror to all opposition before he was hurt in late season.

HEIN AT CENTER

Hein, Tassi, Wentworth, Williamson and Peebles all are very good centers. Hein rates first choice because of his sterling defensive work and extreme reliability on offense. Tassi, smaller physically than the others, makes up for lack of stature in brains and fight. Wentworth is just as good a center this year as he was a tackle last year, although choosing from among Williamson, Wentworth and Peebles is a tough job.

To my way of thinking, Duffield has a clear edge over his teammate, Mohler, for the quarterback position. Duffield has had more experience and shows it. He is a fine little field general and a high-class ball-carrier. However, Mohler, with another year's experience, should be one of the EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: THE LADY OF THE BIG FEET—About 50 years ago, this "Lady of the Big Feet," Fanny Miles, made a tour of the country and appeared in many museums in the larger cities of the United States. My drawing was made from an original photograph taken in a Cincinnati Museum in 1880. Mrs. J. J. Smith, of 936 East Eighteenth street, Oklahoma City, Okla., who submitted the suggestion, was personally acquainted with Miss Miles. FOUR TOUCHDOWNS ON FOUR FIRST PLAYS—Harold Newby, halfback of the St. Olaf (Minn.) football team, carried the ball for touchdowns on each of four first plays this season—58 yards through the River Falls team, 72 yards against Macalester, 45 yards through the Carleton squad and 35 yards over the St. John's goal. In these four games he played a total of only 16 minutes.

SAM DREYFUSS AT CONFAB

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the Pirates, expects to leave tomorrow morning for Montreal, where, on the following day, the annual meeting of the minor baseball leagues will get under way.

When the minor officials complete their sessions, the Pirate officials will move to New York for the purpose of taking in the major league pow wow scheduled for next week. President Barney Dreyfuss and Manager Jewel Ens will join the younger Dreyfuss in New York.

Bill McKechnie, manager of the Boston Braves, may go to Montreal, but if he does not, he will journey to Boston to confer with President Emil Fuchs, of the Boston Club, on team matters.

Kiski to Battle Chapel Hill Next

Kiski will come near establishing a record among preparatory schools for team traveling, when it sets out Wednesday morning for Chapel Hill, N. C. Only one game on the entire Kiski schedule has been played at home. For its first game, Kiski went down to Annapolis to meet the Navy Plebes. Then to Pittsburgh to face Carnegie Tech Plebes; next week over to Washington to battle W. and J. Freshmen; to Johnstown to meet the Pitt Plebes; then to New York for a game with the Army Freshmen, and now to North Carolina.

At North Carolina, Kiski will face one of its own old stars in George Barclay, a last year guard at Kiski, who is on North Carolina's team.

BLUFFITES CARD OGLETHORPE

Oglethorpe University, of Georgia, has signed with Duquesne University for a game here next season, adding to the hardest and most colorful schedule ever attempted by the Dukes which John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics, is compiling. The Georgia team will come here for one of the after-dark games in which the Red and Blue have been doing their night riding, playing at Forbes Field October 2.

J. H. Robertson, former Syracuse star, is coach of the Oglethorpe gridders and has been turning out colorful football teams. Having played Villanova last year, Coach Robertson is anxious to battle teams which use the Notre Dame style of play.

Penn State Soccer Team Runner-Up

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 1.—With three teams deadlocked for first place in the Intercollegiate League standings, Penn State's soccer team is virtually assured of a tie for second place in the final rating. Although defeated in only one game this season the Lions, who won the championship in 1929, dropped out of the lead on account of two tie games. Defeated by Princeton, early in the season, the Lion booters failed to do better than tie with Haverford and Syracuse. The defeat by Princeton was the first suffered by a Penn State soccer team since the close of the 1927 season.

BROOKLYN COPS

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the New York Giants, 7-6, in a National Professional Football League game at the Polo Grounds yesterday.

LAWSON VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Herb Lawson, erstwhile popular professional at the Edgewood Country Club, died after a brief illness Saturday at Flint, Mich., and funeral services are to be held at the home of his father, 1412 Mabel avenue, Flint, tomorrow, according to relatives here. Lawson was the victim of pneumonia.

Herb Lawson

Lawson, born in Carnoustie, Scotland, came to the United States shortly before the war to play soccer for the Bethlehem Steel Club. During the war he was a member of a regiment commanded by J. Bernd Rose, president of the West Penn Golf Association, and was seriously wounded.

His first golf job here was at Youghiogheny, shortly after returning from France, remaining there two years before going to Thornburg. After four years at Thornburg, he went to Edgewood where he remained five years before resigning in 1927 to return to his trade of patternmaking. Lawson's brother-in-law, Jimmy O'Donnell, is now professional at Edgewood.

Star Golf Pros Sail for Japan

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—William (Wild Bill) Mehlhorn and Robert A. (Wee Bobbie) Cruickshank, professional golfers, and their manager, Al Hammond, New York, sailed Saturday on the Nyk liner, Tatsuta Maru, to engage in a good will golf tournament in Japan.

The golfers have an invitation from the Japan Golf Association and will establish a caddie foundation for Japanese caddies.

PURDUE, NOTRE DAME ON '31 GRID SLATE

PLAID'S '31 CARD

Sept. 26—Canisius University at Buffalo.
Oct. 3—W. & J. at Pittsburgh.
Oct. 10—Georgia Tech at Atlanta.
Oct. 17—Pennsylvania open.
Oct. 24—Purdue at Pittsburgh.
Oct. 31—Notre Dame at Pittsburgh.
Nov. 7—Pitt at Pittsburgh.
Nov. 14—Temple at Philadelphia.
Nov. 21—Pennsylvania open.
Nov. 26—New York University at New York.

Booked to face seven major opponents in 1931, Carnegie Tech's football team next season will tackle the hardest schedule ever arranged for a Tartan aggregation. The card for the coming campaign was announced today by Graduate Manager Clarence Overend. It shows only eight games, but only one of them is with a minor foe. After facing the University of Buffalo again in the opener, the Plaid will take on seven big rivals in succession, with only open dates on October 17 and November 21 providing breathing spells for the Skibo moleskinners.

THIEL IS DROPPED

With Jesse Steffen and Bob Waddell losing 13 men from this year's squad, and consequently being forced to virtually rebuild their eleven, the 1931 schedule presents a Herculean task, with a tough barrier to hurdle almost every Saturday. From September 26 to Thanksgiving Day, few soft spots show up, with the Tartans forced to show against Georgia Tech and on the Tornado's home field, tackling Purdue and Notre Dame, two of the strongest in the Middle West, and later invading the East to repeat with Temple University and return the call that New York University made to the Stadium this season.

Thiel and Western Reserve have been dropped temporarily from the card.

Purdue is the only newcomer on the schedule, the Boilermakers and the Plaid never having previously met on the gridiron. When this game was scheduled, Purdue was the reigning champion of the Western Conference.

SLATE DIVIDED

Four of the eight games will be at home and four will be on the road—a very evenly balanced card. Incidentally, the Stadium will present its best combined schedule, with Pitt to face West Virginia, Army and Nebraska here, in addition to the annual Carnegie-Pitt embroglio.

Five of Carnegie's toughest games will come in succession, with only the Saturday before Thanksgiving a break. In this stretch, the Tartans will battle Purdue, Notre Dame, Pitt, Temple and New York University in a row.

With the final game of the present season occupying their attention rather than next year's tough schedule, the Carnegie players returned to practice today, after resting since last Thursday morning. Bob Waddell will drive them hard this week in preparation for the charity battle with W. & J. at the Stadium Saturday.

W. P. I. A. L. Champs To Be Named Today

The Class A and B football champions of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic League will be determined at a meeting of the football committee of the organization to be held at the Fort Pitt Hotel at 4 p. m. today. Redstone Township and Monessen are the leading contenders for the Class A honors, while Derry Township High is in the fore for the Class B honors.

GRID TILT POSTPONED

Following the heavy downpour of rain early yesterday morning, Manager Fred Person, of the McKeesport Olympics, postponed the championship game with the Athletic Radios scheduled yesterday afternoon at Rainbow Gardens, until next Sunday at the same place.

Basketball Rules Quiz

(This is the beginning of a daily feature which will take the basketball fans and players through a series of 24 problems such as may come up in any of the big games this winter. Particular attention has been paid to cover the new changes in the rules. A better understanding and more enjoyment of what is going on during a contest will be gained by following this series closely.)

PLAY NO 1.

In a game between Northwestern and Nebraska, Lockhart, of Northwestern, while in the back court, holds the ball for five seconds when facing Fisher, of Nebraska, who has retained a position within a yard of him. Lockhart is making no effort to put the ball into play.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

This case covers one of the new rules in the 1930-31 code. The referee blows his whistle at the expiration of five seconds and declares it a held ball and orders a jump between Fisher and Lockhart.

SIMMONS CROWNED A. L. BATTING CHAMP

GEHRIG SECOND; JOE CRONIN SHINES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

A great right-hand batter narrowly outshone a great left-hand hitter in the race for the American League honors of this year, it is disclosed in the official figures given out today. Al Simmons, of world champion-ship Athletics, led the circuit with a mark of .381, which is just two points better than the season's average compiled by Lou Gehrig of the Yankees.

Al Simmons

Of deep interest to Pittsburgh district fans was the great offensive performance of Joe Cronin, former Pirate, who recently was designated by the newspapermen as the most valuable player in the junior loop.

STAR ON OFFENSE

Aside from his defensive brilliance, Sunny Joe ranked with the best in the American League on offensive play. One of the few players to participate in every battle, Joe's card for the 154 games shows 127 runs scored, 203 hits, 349 total bases, 41 doubles, eight triples, 14 home runs, 22 sacrifice hits and 17 stolen bases. His batting mark was .346.

An aggressive player, Cronin, despite his youth, was regarded as the balance wheel of the Washington club. Joe also appears to have developed into a fast runner, as he was tied for third place in stolen bases.

Though the quality of pitching in the league was distinctly higher this year, batting increased almost four points above the 1929 average. This seeming paradox of better pitching and heavier hitting is accounted for by the long list of new, skillful young players who have taken the places of former stars, a change which has affected every club in the league.

FOUR VETERANS

Of the first 30 batters only four have been in the league 10 or more years, while nearly all the remaining 26 have seen no more than four years of service. Among these younger players who were prominent throughout the season were Cronin, West and Myer, of Washington; Hodapp, Morgan, Porter, Averill and Burnett, of Cleveland; Stone and Alexander, Detroit; Dickey, Chapman and Reese, New York; Kress, St. Louis; Reynolds, Jolley and Cissell, Chicago, and Webb, Sweeney and Oliver, Boston. Foxx, of the champion Philadelphia team, has finished just three seasons as a regular, while Simmons and Cochrane may be said to have only now attained their best form.

Ruth, as usual, led his league in home runs, but failed to equal his best record, 60. Combs was first in triples, Hodapp, as noted above, in two-base hits, Haas in sacrifices and McManus in stolen bases.

The slugging Yankees led in team batting with a season average of .309, an increase of 15 points over their 1929 record. Cleveland's Indians were second with .304, a jump of 10 points in a year, while the Washington Senators in third place with .302 showed a remarkable gain of 26 points. New York established new records for runs scored, for total bases and for long hits.

Sport Vignettes

Notre Dame being held to a one-point victory and the Yellow Jackets hockey team scoring its first win are almost too much for any one day. . . . . Chalk up another great day for the Eastern elevens against those from the Middle West and Far West. . . . . Notre Dame 7, Army 6; Detroit 12, Georgetown 0; Stanford 14, Dartmouth 7; Washington State 13, Villanova 0, and Drake 49, Temple 20—not a win in a carload. . . . . Milwaukee, which is the next stopping-off place of Art Shires, is the best minor league city in the country and outdraws many major league towns across a season.

All we need now to make the football season a howling success is for Southern California to take Notre Dame next Saturday and Navy to win over the Army. . . . If the average race horse were half as inconsistent from one race to another as the average football team is from one Saturday to another, it would be ruled off the turf by the jockey clubs. . . . In their four meetings to date, Southern California has outscored Notre Dame, 57 points against 47, but Notre Dame has won three of those games by a one-point margin, 13-12 in 1926 and 1929, and 7-6 in 1927, while the Trojans won, 27-14, in 1928. . . . Next Saturday's clash between them at Los Angeles shapes up as the real tidbit of the current campaign.

Ernie Pinckert, six-foot tall star of the Trojans, was used as an interfering back last year, but this season he has been carrying the ball in great style and will be an all-America threat against Notre Dame. He ran 74 yards for a touchdown against Stanford and averaged 13 yards per try against California, which Southern California defeated, 74-0.

Harvey Harman, star tackle of Pop Warner's teams at Pitt more than a decade ago, was a visitor in Pittsburgh over the week-end . . . Harvey now is the head coach and athletic director at the University of the South (Sewanee) at Chattanooga, Tenn., whither he went this year after eight years at Haverford . . . . He still makes his home on the outskirts of Philadelphia . . . . K. O. Christner's swan dive in the first minute of his bout with Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, at Chicago, last Friday night, leading the cash customers to believe he was a part of the Toy Bulldog's build-up campaign for a heavyweight "title" bout with Max Schmeling there next summer, may cost him his place on the Christmas fund card at Motor Square Garden two weeks from tonight. He is matched to box George Panka . . . . Incidentally, Jules Beck, the Garden matchmaker, is having his troubles trying to line up an opponent for Tony Herrera next Monday and may drop plans for such a bout entirely and go to work on a new match.—HARRY KECK.

CARNERA IS WINNER

BARCELONA, Spain, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—The judges disagreed and the referee awarded a 10-round decision to Primo Carnera over Paulino Uzcudun here yesterday. The bout was tame.

With the season schedule to get under way tomorrow, latest developments in the Allegheny County League indicate that the loop will operate on a six-club basis due to the last-minute withdrawal of the Homestead entry and the apparent failure of the Beckman Motor team to obtain financial support. While the Beckmans still are in the loop, it is almost a certainty that the quintet will disband unless it obtains a backer.

The season opens with Charleroi opposing Fintex at Columbus Temple, while the Duquesne Lafayettes entertain the J. J. Mieles at Duquesne Library. The league has adopted the five-personal foul rule, with the banished player spending 10 minutes on the bench.

In the West Penn League tonight, the North Side Bucks meet the South Side Falcons on the latters' floor.

TOPORCER MADE SKEETER PILOT

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

MONTREAL, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—George (Specs) Toporcer, who played the infield for the St. Louis Cardinals for years and who last season was with the Rochester (N. Y.) team, has been signed to manage the Jersey City club of the International League, it was announced here today at the convention of the National Association of Professional Leagues.

The announcement was made by Sam Colacurco, the Jersey City contractor, who last week purchased the Jersey City club. Colacurco is one of the scores of delegates from all parts of the United States who are here for the meeting of the minor leagues.

It is understood that the deal for Toporcer represents an outlay of $20,000 by the Jersey City club. The sum of $10,000 will be paid to St. Louis for the release of Toporcer from Rochester, which is one of the St. Louis farms. Toporcer's salary will be $10,000 a year, it is said.

Toporcer, who succeeds Joe Tinker as manager of Jersey City, will be a playing manager. He will perform at second base.

MACALUSO SETS SCORING PACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Scoring nine points with a touchdown and three extra points in last Thursday's game, Leonard MacAluso, of Colgate, leading scorer of the East, brought his total up to 144 points for the season and increased his margin to 48 points over his nearest rivals. Records of the leaders to date, as compiled by the Associated Press, follow:

Heavyweights again furnish the windup at Motor Square Garden tonight.

They are Al Friedman, of Boston, and Emmett Rocco, of Ellwood City, two rugged campaigners who have met the best of them. Friedman's record reads like a Who's Who of the unlimited weight division, while Rocco also has been in there swinging leather with the first-fighters.

The bout marks Friedman's first start in Pittsburgh. Rocco has beaten Tom Heeney and George Panka in recent bouts in the Garden.

Harry Williams, Negro light-heavyweight, returns to the wars following a layoff of several months because of a broken right hand, against Harold Scarney, of Youngstown, in the six-round semi-final; Allen Beatty, Negro welterweight, of McKeesport, is subbing for Jimmy Belmont against Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, in the second bout, and Sharkey Lesko, of Duquesne, and Billy Sullivan, of Lawrenceville, are in the opener, at 8:30.

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, has lined up an all-star card for Friday night. He will feature two 10-rounders, with Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, meeting Allen Beatty in the main event and Chet Smallwood, of Akron, boxing Eddie Brannon, Negro, of the Hill, in a return bout in the other 10-rounder. Al Becker, Sheraden middleweight, will be one of the principals in the second bout, and Irving Rodgers, younger brother of Jackie Rodgers, will make his debut against an opponent to be selected in the opener. It develops that Kelly's left hand was merely badly bruised and not broken, as feared, in his recent bout with Joe Trippe at the Moose.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Creep Up — Local Industrials Down

STOCKS CREEP TO HIGHER LEVELS

Volume of Trading Ebbs Near Year's Low; Few Gain More Than Point

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Although the stock market was merely a temporizing affair today, prices wandered toward higher levels.

The volume of trading ebbed close to the lowest levels of the year. Impelling developments were lacking in the news of the week-end, and, with Congress convening, traders merely killed time pending delivery of the President's message, expected tomorrow.

There was a ripple or two of selling in the morning, mostly in the rails and utilities, but a gradual upward trend in industrials and specialties soon dominated the list. Few gains extended much beyond a point, but here and there a stock stepped up 2 or 3.

Although trading was too light to indicate any decisive trend, the fact that activity came almost to a standstill when prices declined and picked up a little on the advance, was regarded as encouraging.

News, while largely of a neutral character, was more favorable than otherwise. Developments in the copper and oil industries tended to bolster hopes of price stability. In copper, all custom smelters were asking 11 cents a pound for the metal.

President Hoover's oil conservation policy was sustained in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, and is expected to be carried to the Supreme Court. Sir Henri Deterding told stockholders of Royal Dutch that rumors concerning a bond issue or a reduced final dividend for 1930 were absolutely false.

Loan calling was the heaviest in weeks, and call money was firm at 2 per cent. This firmer tendency is usally manifest for several days after the turn of the month. The rate which must be paid by banks upon receipts arising from subscriptions for the forthcoming treasury issue was reduced from 2 to 1½ per cent, foreshadowing an extremely low rate for the new government financing. There is also continued talk of a further reduction by the clearing house in the rate paid on bank deposits.

Reading Orders 10 Locomotives

Expenditure of $2,000,000 for improvements by Reading Company was announced by A. T. Dice, president, as a further contribution toward providing increased opportunity for employment. It is ordering 10 freight locomotives from Baldwin Locomotive works at a cost of about $1,000,000. Rebuilding of 13 bridges and replacement of a station will cost nearly $1,000,000.

Prince and Whitely Omits Preferred

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Prince and Whiteley Trading Corporation has omitted the quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the preferred stock, due at this time.

Market value as of November 15 of securities, plus cash, less estimated liabilities, was approximately $5,350,000, giving indicated asset value of $28.75 a preferred share.

ick November Business Lower

TROIT, Dec. 1.—Buick Motor Company, a division of General Motors Corporation, produced and shipped 7,177 cars in November, against 11,171 in October and 9,761 in November, 1929. Because of the time required for taking year-end inventories, December schedule calls for output of only 4,100 cars.

wsprint Price Maintained for 1931

W YORK, Dec. 1.—International Paper Company is notifying customers it will make no change in the price of newsprint for 1931. The price during the coming year will be the same as that established at the close of 1930, which is $62 per ton in New York and Chicago.

Ninth Consecutive Drop In Loans Brings Total To New Low Mark.

Another drop in brokers' loans, this time amounting to $63,000,000, marks the ninth consecutive week in which the total of such borrowings has contracted. The cumulative reduction in that period has amounted to $1,-160,000,000, with the present aggregate of $2,-122,000,000 establishing a new low record since the practice of publishing the figures was first begun early in 1926. The present volume of loans is smallest since about April of 1925 when it was calculated the total of such collateral borrowings was around $2,-060,719,000. The current loan total is equivalent to only about 31 per cent of the record figure of $6,-804,000,000 set up in the week ended October 2, 1929. While loans by New York banks for their own account dropped only $4,000,000 their total loans on securities including loans to non-brokers as well as brokers dipped by $10,-000,000.

The motor industry is approaching the turn of the year with every indication that it will be in an unusually strong statistical position so far as unsold stocks of cars in dealers' hands are concerned. Figures compiled by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show that the total of cars in dealers' hands in the United States and Canada on November 1, last, amounted to 304,690 units. This compared with total stocks of 760,000 cars on October 1, and disclosed a reduction of approximately 46 per cent as contrasted with November 1, last year, when total unsold stocks in the hands of American and Canadian dealers stood at 562,800 units.

Brokers who make a business of dealing in market privileges, more readily known perhaps as "puts and calls," are generally looked upon as the shrewdest judges of the market's position. The fact of the matter is simply that they must be exceptionally capable of judging the immediate prospects if their business is to be profitable. And judging from the rates quoted on a number of leading stocks just now it would seem that these brokers are anticipating a good trading market over the next month or so. At any rate "puts and calls" are quoted about the same distance away from the current market on 30-day privileges. American Can calls are quoted 10 points above and puts 12 points under the market. Consolidated Gas is quoted 7 points both ways. General Electric 5 points on either side and Radio 4 points on either end. Puts on steel are quoted 10 points down and calls 8 points up.

Directors of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, controlled jointly by the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific through ownership of more than 97 per cent of its stock, are scheduled to meet for dividend action next Thursday. Wall street is inclined to look for something in the way of special action at that time, and would not be surprised if an extra of as much as $5 a share is ordered. This in addition to the year's regular payments of $10 a share would probably mean the "Burlington" would dip into its enormous surplus for the equivalent of about $1.50 a share on its stock inasmuch as earnings for the year are estimated to be running at the rate of about $13.50 a share. Northern Pacific and Great Northern each own 830,179 shares of Burlington stock so that their income would increase by $4,150,895 this year in the event of such an extra being paid. Such extra income would be equivalent to about $1.65 a share on Northern Pacific and Great Northern stocks.

While market observers hold to the opinion that industrial stocks are within reach of their bottoms, the view toward rail stocks continues decidedly bearish. It is pointed out that whereas freight traffic showed an annual increase between 1890 and 1920 of 7 per cent, the annual rate of increase from 1921 to 1929, inclusive, was but 1 per cent. Passenger traffic increased during the 30 years ended with 1920 at an annual rate of 6 per cent, but in the nine years since 1920, it has shown an actual shrinkage of 3 per cent annually. Average receipts a ton mile of traffic hauled, declined more than 15 per cent between 1920 and 1929, with a resulting cumulative loss to the roads of more than $5,700,000,000.

It is not generally realized perhaps, that the index of industrial production in October, 1930, was below the lowest level usually reached in times of deep depression, as compared with comparable statistics running back to 1878. It has been estimated that the index of industrial production and trade in October was 75 per cent of normal, compared with 80 per cent in March, 1921; 82 per cent in November, 1914; 81 per cent in March, 1908; 77 per cent in October, 1896; 78 per cent in 1893; 82 per cent in 1884; and 80 per cent in December, 1878.

November Has Bequeathed A Mixed Legacy

By B. C. FORBES

NOVEMBER has left a mixed legacy. Eyes and hopes are now turned towards recovery year. Next December should find conditions much more satisfactory.

THE MONTH just ended, while in many respects disappointing, did bring a number of encouraging developments.

Mr. Forbes

Apart from grains and iron, new low prices were not registered by commodities, whereas October brought many minimums for the year. New York Stock Exchange average quotations closed the month some three points lower, after having enjoyed a rather vigorous recovery in the second and third weeks of the month. Bonds also are moderately lower than a month ago.

Retail trade has been, and still is only so so. Commercial failures are numerous. November brought an unusual number of bank failures, especially in the South, a not astonishing happening after a whole year's depression and falling prices. Bank clearings have afforded no encouragement. Neither have the railways' financial or freight reports. The oil industry continues to wallow in overproduction and unprofitable prices. Building, except of a public nature, drags below normal. Employment has not broadened.

And there have been other unwelcome trends.

ON THE OTHER HAND, the marking up of copper and the maintaining of price appreciably above last year's minimum has helped sentiment. So have the indications that leaders of the iron and steel industry are getting the price situation under control. Influential endeavors to prevent further demoralization in sugar prices are being watched with interest. The announced burying of the hatchet by Democratic leaders, even though there are signs that harmony may not be entirely preserved, has had sentimental value.

The business-like steps taken to grapple with unemployment emergencies have done more than any other one thing to create better feeling throughout the country. The pessimists had been uttering dire prophecies of what would happen in many places this winter. Now the general feeling is that the situation will be effectively met through humane preventive measures.

ALTHOUGH the stock market has lost quite a part of its mid-month rise, the fact that the renewed weakness was accompanied by intense dullness was interpreted as very encouraging. The conclusion is being reached that if powerful bears and grain from fresh attacks, the market can at least hold its own. That voluntary liquidation has run its course is generally believed. Admittedly, no [illegible] demand for stocks, no eagerness to buy either when prices are moving down or when they are moving up. A drastic rally probably would force considerable liquidation. A sustained advance probably would start investment buying. New Year always brings very large amounts of money for reinvestment. Despite conditions, year-end dividend disbursements probably reach an unprecedented total because of the $600,000,000 in new financing since this year. Also, not a few special disbursements are being made by companies financially able to do so.

Wall Street is somewhat less gloomy than it has been for several months. There are still optimist rumors and predictions afloat, covering both domestic and foreign "menaces," but the bear or monger is now attracting attention.

And it is well to remember that the stock market proverbially does not wait until every unfavorable feature clears away before it starts anticipating better times.

BROKERS' loans have decreased 69 per cent since October of last year. Day to day loans have been officially maintained at 2 per cent for the last two months. These two facts tell how drastic deflation has been and how abundant money has become.

Quietly conducted negotiations among the heads of Europe's central banks and Governor Harrison, of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, should bear fruit. The Bank of France at last seems prepared to take action designed to make more helpful use of its $2,000,000 idle gold. Means may be found, too, to use constructively some of our own stock of $4,534,000,000.

Broadly speaking, consumption has been outrunning sales in this country. Some expansion in demand is certain from now on.

Oil Industry Stocks Start Decline

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE OIL INDUSTRY, for years suffering from surplus stocks and output far beyond the market for its products, at last is showing signs of bringing its operations into balance. The improvement is particularly encouraging since it is taking place at a time of the year when the industry is usually accumulating inventories rather than liquidating them.

For the past three years attempts to reduce production by pro-ration have been made. While the growth of stocks was checked to some extent, the industry made little progress towards reducing the amount of crude oil and refined products in storage until recently.

Pro-ration measures are now working more smoothly. Evidence of this is seen in the daily average output of crude oil. The American Petroleum Institute report for the week ended November 22 showed a reduction of 22,700 barrels from the previous week. The total of 2,281,850 was the lowest since 1926. It was only 40,000 barrels away from the output of 2,240,000 daily recommended by the committee on Petroleum Economics in its report to the Federal Oil Conservation Board as a desirable rate up to April 1, 1931.

Output Curtailed

ONE OF THE THREE states which supply 80 per cent of the crude oil produced in the United States has reduced its output below the level suggested by the committee. The last report showed that Oklahoma had a daily average output of 484,200 barrels against an allotment of 535,000 barrels.

Texas with an output of 734,800 barrels is not far above its allotment of 719,000 barrels a day. If the new program of the Texas Railroad Commission is put into effect by producers, daily output in that state will be reduced to 680,200 barrels. This will bring the country's total output within the limits desired by the Committee on Petroleum Economics.

California is still exceeding its share of the oil production with an output of over 600,000 barrels against a recognized share of 535,000 barrels.

Refiners Make Progress

OIL REFINERIES HAVE cut production to about 64 per cent of capacity compared with over 70 per cent on September 27. Runs of crude oil to refinery stills in the week ended November 22 were reduced to 2,290,800 barrels from 2,501,700 barrels in the week ended September 27, but were still slightly above the amount recommended by the committee.

While the oil industry is in its dull period for distribution, gasoline stocks have been reduced 690,000 barrels since September 2. Gasoline stocks of 36,532,000 on November 22 were still at an uncomfortably high level, but the fact that this figure is declining instead of increasing at this time of year is an exceptionally favorable development.

Continued progress will have to be made during the winter months for the oil trade to materially improve its position, but recent developments indicate that the possibilities of further lightening the burden of surplus stocks are good.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The bond market was dull and featureless today. Pressure against corporate domestic issues was confined to a small list, but the narrow fractional changes that were general gave no hint of the trend.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP).—Transactions in the stock section of the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows. (Bonds quoted in sales column in United States bonds in dollars and coupon amounts of dollars.)

Freeman Is Shot Down by Thugs He Swindled

CHAPTER XXI.

There had been no sleep. The sun was up. And through the sooty curtains of room 444 of the Victory Hotel, Jack Annie and Tommy Gillespie met the daylight.

"You got to scram now, Tommy boy," said Annie, gently. "Kiss me goodby. I don't think we'll ever meet again."

They had said much through night. Game as he was, young fellow had finally accepted Annie's desperate, dead-plan—she had convinced him it was Freeman's life or —and she had convinced that she would take Freeman's and save his.

He strained her to him in his athletic arms and be choked on high emotions. Their lips were glued together in the last passionate kiss—the last of a thousand through the long, dark night.

Then she opened the door.

"Goodby, Annie," he half whispered. "May the Lord be good to you!"

She kissed his hand—then closed the door behind him.

She closed the door behind the only living man on earth she loved, the only honest man who had ever loved her. She closed the door, too, on any chance or profit that New York might have held for her. And with her identity. And on her crowning glory—her red hair—which had sent many good men and into frenzy and many bad men to their graves.

Prepares for Crime

As though to steel herself, she locked the door.

And, with one last sigh as she looked toward it, she turned—and went to work. For there was much work to be done this morning—and not nice work.

From her handbag she took out a package of dye. She coated a comb with it and started running it through her hair, over and over again. The natural color resisted the first assault, but as she dipped and dragged the vandal comb down and down and down again, it began to give in. Soon that storied hair became an unrecognizable, dark, nondescript brown. She was still beautiful, but she was no longer Polack Annie.

Now she took from her bag some other things. One was a blued revolver, not of the latest type. In her other hand she held a shiny something that looked like an elongated eye-cup. She adjusted the thin end of it over the muzzle and it settled with a click. It was a silencer, practical for the sort of assignment Annie had given herself.

She pumped a shot into her pillow. It worked! There was a noise like the spitting of an angry cat. That was all.

Annie picked up the telephone.

"H'lo," answered Silk. "Why didn't you call las' night? Where's my sucker?"

Plans Getaway

"He jus' lef' me. Listen, Silk. I can't spill on the wire, see? I've got to talk to you. An' I can't leave here. I'll explain when I see you. Can you come right over? An' come up alone—I am. I'm in 444, Victory Hotel—you know—"

"I know. I own a piece of it. Why can't you leave?"

"Becus' I'm standin' by here for a buzz on the 'phone from him—get it? When that comes, an' it'll be any minute now, I'll have him where I want him—an' he'll wait. It's surefire an' foolproof."

"H'm—okay—I'll be over in a half hour."

Annie unlocked the door. She opened the window and went out on the fire escape. She climbed down one floor and looked into 344. Yes, everything was copesettee. The window was open. Her getaway looked clear. She passed through the room, went up the main stairs and was again in 444, which she had chosen as the execution chamber for Silk Freeman. He had better rooms than that in his garage.

She put on her hat and was about to unleash the curls she always displayed with practiced carelessness. She sighed and left them hat-locked. She tumbled everything back into her bag—except the ugly blue gat and its shiny-nosed appendage.

Silk Is Late

Annie returned to the fire escape, drew the soiled curtains together, and stood watching the door. She raised her pistol and gauged the range. She visioned Freeman entering—he stepped fast, he would trot in briskly and, not seeing her, would look surprised and search the room with his eyes. If he was still able to. For she proposed to work with dispatch. If Freeman should see her before she pumped one into him—he was resourceful; he might dive under the bed or turn and run out again.

He never packed a rod—she knew that. His bodyguards were his gun-bearers. No punk copper or rube sheriff looking for a quick rep was going to put over on him an unexpected frisk and rap him on the concealed weapon joke like they did the imperious Capone in Philly. No, he wouldn't kill her—then!

She piped her wrist watch. The half hour had passed and three minutes more. More minutes, and more. What could have happened? Promptness was one of Freeman's few virtues.

She didn't dare leave her post or position. Any second now he might turn the knob. What the——"

Silk Freeman, the Big Boy himself, strode out of his Park avenue apartment building, flanked by his armed pair of twin killers. One of them leaped to the wheel of his imported palace on tires. Its glistening glittering sides were bullet-proofed with steel sheetings between the layers of exterior veneer and interior velour. The windows were bullet-proof and shatter-proof. The passengers' seat was low and deep in the back of the limousine and those who sat there were invisible from the side and rear.

Through the 66th Street Transverse of Central Park the noiseless engine carried the ungodly three at an even pace.

Freeman Shot

Behind Silk Freeman's regal carriage was a less pretentious sedan. Only in the crowded traffic of midtown Manhattan could such a mean competitor have kept up with a Hispano-Suiza. But if one had looked down from an airplane and watched the progress of the notorious racketeer from the time he left his home one might have observed that the larger vehicle was never far behind. Nor was it when Freemen's man popped out to turn the handle for him, before the Victory Hotel. It drew up to within a foot, and two doors opened, and out of them vomited, seven men. By this time Freeman's back was turned and he was on the way in.

The hoodlum in the lead of the seven pursuers wagged a wicked machine gun. The other six were armed with automatics. They raced in. Freemen's bodyguards, who had been instructed to wait outside, were so stunned they couldn't even try to head them off. But they advanced cautiously as far as the outer door.

Freeman was already on the floor perforated with a dozen bullets and the assassins were tracking back for their car. The bodyguard, outnumbered, dogged it. They jumped aside and let the murderers, who turned toward no one in their haste to make their machine and get under way and away.

Then they rushed in and picked up the bleeding, scarcely conscious Freeman. People were now scrambling down the stairs. The whole operation had not taken 40 seconds.

"It was Nutsy Nutsy Flemmen," hoarsed the chauffeur.

"Yeh, I know," wearily whispered Freeman. "Get me out o' here—get me home—oh——"

DAILY TRUE STORY -:- Going Straight

Pudge Morley threw the magazine clear across the so-called reading room of the Dock Room.

His acquaintances, who were indulging in a 10-cent limit game of jack pot, glanced up at him curiously.

"Git tired of bein' a damn bookworm, Pudge?" one of the gang asked.

"Going straight!" snarled Pudge, scowling at the magazine in the corner.

"What?" Jim Ollenson asked, surprised.

"Every time I read about some guy who has done his bit, comin' out and going straight, it gets me sore."

"It's a good graft. A guy has to hand it out. Listen, Pudge, when you come out of stir the bulls and the dicks spot you and lay for you. They figure you're broke, except for the finnif they give you up at the Big House, and that you'll lift a leather or swipe a keyster or even crack a box to get on your feet again. They—"

"But nobody goes straight after a bit in stir—he can't. He gets a job and some bull or dick tips the boss and he's out," Pudge insisted.

"What do you mean, nobody goes straight?" Sime Badger asked.

Sime had just done four and a half years for a badly managed attempt at porch climbing.

"Are you goin' straight?" Pudge sneered.

"Absolutely."

"Tell it to Sweeney."

Some of the other boys laughed, not at the ancient brand of slang, but at the idea of Sime Barger going straight.

"I'm going straight," Sime Badger insisted. "I know when I want to keep out of the castle up river. Another trick and they'll keep me there all th' time I got."

"I got a picture of you doin' that," Pudge jeered.

"All right, ask Casey or Unger over at th' station house. They'll prove to you I'm goin' straight," Sime insisted.

Returns Money

"Yeah? How do they know?"

"Well, I'll tell you. Over at Grand Central today, when I was coming down from One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, I piped a bird with two keysters—one was what is called a Gladstone bag and the other was just a ritzy fitted suitcase half as big as a steamer trunk. This bird sat across th' aisle from me. I seen him open up the suitcase to toss in a magazine and I'm a pickled herring if that bag wasn't chock-a-block with dough."

"Dough?" Jim asked.

"Dough—the stuff that wins on Broadway. Nice crisp bills, mostly with cheerful yellow backs."

"And you seen it?" Pudge asked, his eyes getting twitchy and nervous.

"Sure I seen it—and what's more I got that keyster and I took it back to th' guy."

"Hay-wire!" bellowed Pudge and Jim, almost in unison.

"I sure did. When I got out of stir I promised th' warden that I'd go straight. Well, on th' train, when we got into Grand Central this guy looks up from a book, leaps up, grabs the pigskin bag and beats it."

"But about——"

"Let me tell it," Sime insisted. "This guy beats it off th' train. And he leaves th' bag with all th' dough in it."

"Oh, boy!" murmured Jim.

"You copped it, of course," Sime added, looking enviously at Sime.

"I went straight," Sime declared.

"Says you!" growled another of the Dock Club Gang.

"Says me," Sime answered, scowling at the man.

"You walked out of there and left a keyster with 30 or 40 grand there, when all you had to do was to walk away with it!" Pudge laughed jeeringly.

"I did not walk out without it!"

"When was this?"

Rewarded for Deed

"Along just before dark."

"Then what do you mean, going straight when you copped a bag full of cash money?"

"Saw the address of the guy on the keyster. I took it, went up town in th' subway, found this guy's home and turned it over to him. The big dope must have been hopped or something, he hadn't missed it. Honest, this guy just bust out crying when he seen it."

"So he thanked you, kissed you on both cheeks and said God would reward you—like th' story books?" Jim spoke with deep sarcasm.

"Who kissed me? No, this guy gives me $20—from his own pocket. He exclaimed that the money wasn't his, but he would reward me from his own pocket. He said if he had lost it he would have lost his job, and cheated a couple hundred men out of everything. He said something about movin' all this cash away from a big plant where they got a tip th' payroll would be held up."

"You got $20 out of it? Dumb, plain dumb—how much fat is there in goin' straight when you got thirty or forty grand all yours just by walkin' away with it, hopping a rattler and goin' south?"

"On th' level. This guy has a swell apartment up on a One Hundred and Sixteenth street. His monicker was queer, I remember it bein' painted on th' case, 'Horace Gaston.' "

"And you're goin' to retire and run a mission to reform other guys who have taken th' rap, eh? All on that twenty!"

Jim and Pudge got a big laugh out of this.

"Right — so far as goin' straight is concerned."

"Lissen, I got a good steer for tonight, Sime—some heist guys can use you for lookout."

"That's out, absolutely. I tell you I'm goin' straight from now on." Sime looked at his watch. "Gee, I got to beat it—Lieut. Casey has a line on a real job for me."

There was some laughter after he had gone. A few of the crowd remarked that poor Sime must have gone goofy while in stir.

Pudge Morley and Jim Ollenson got together in a corner. They talked busily. Some of the old-timers laughed a little when finally, around about three that morning, Pudge and Jim left the place, each going in an opposite direction.

One took a taxi, the other the subway, which ran all local at that hour.

It must have been six, almost daylight, when Pudge and Jim drifted back to the Dock Club.

There wasn't even a hint of a smile between them.

"You sap," Pudge growled at Sime. "You wasted good time with that yarn of yours. By the time we got up there, there was nothin' stirrin'. Your party with the bag full of money had put it away in some midnight bank, I give a guess. If you had come here first and tipped us, we could have copped it."

"No, you wouldn't have got it," Sime admitted.

Sime grinned.

"I spotted Regan of th' plain clothes bunch when I got off th' train with th' keyster full of dough. He started to trail me, and so I took it straight up to th' sap who left it," Sime explained.

Clever Actor

"That's different—it was a good play," Jim admitted.

"I pretended that I didn't know Regan, this dick, was even living. And when the sap reported my honesty to headquarters as I asked him to do, I rated high there."

"Sure, it was a wise move," Pudge admitted, "but I bet it broke your heart, what?"

"Better than doing a 20 in stir."

"Sure. Me and Jim was sore when we went through that sap's place and no bag there."

"There wouldn't be," Sime said jauntily, "because I told you I was going straight—I went straight back and got that bag of money myself—try and guess where it is now!"

Strange and True Adventure of Mr. Spielman

" " " "

Gives Ladies of Church Thrill of Lifetime

(Of course, it is from the Lamar, Missouri, Democrat.)

There was a very exciting time at the largely attended revival service here Sunday evening. Rev. Garr, a traveling evangelist, has conducted the revival for the past two weeks.

Just as the services were drawing to a close, Charlie Spielman, well-known citizen, entered the door in a state of high excitement. There were several people sitting in front of the pulpit on the mourners' bench. Charlie, in his highly wrought up state, went up to where they sat and as he passed along the line pulled the hair of each mourner, taking hold of a lock and giving it a jerk. He then passed back through the audience, pulling hair in the same manner. In the course of his excitement he jerked the hair of Mrs. Hininger and Mrs. Moultrie. This angered Mr. Hininger and Mr. Moutrie. They jumped up and started for Charlie. Mr. Moutrie made a pass at Charlie which came too close to Mr. Spielman.

By this time the whole meeting was in an uproar. Four men grabbed Charlie, while Mr. Moutrie was hustled outside the church. He was very angry, and he called repeatedly through the open church window for Charlie to come outside.

Charlie soon began to call on all those present to pray for him. Mr. Moutrie called through the window for him to come out there. He would pray for him, he concluded menacingly.

Friends intervened and induced Mr. Moutrie to take his wife and start home. But he felt Charlie's action in pulling his wife's hair was inexcusable.

A Man of Action

Governor of New York Sets Good Example for Those of Other States.

GOV. ROOSEVELT, of New York, like his illustrious namesake, is a gentleman of action. He does not merely talk, but proceeds to do things. He does not dodge the challenges of the times with words, but goes out to meet them with deeds.

When the New York Legislature convenes soon after the new year, the governor will submit a legislative program to reduce unemployment, promote education, increase relief for the aged, and carry forward the progressive activities of the state in many other fields of public duty and humane endeavor.

Plans will be ready to speed up the new construction necessary to provide decent housing for all mental defectives in the care of the state.

And when all the money now available and to be asked for at the coming session has been allotted, it is estimated that the state will still have more than $100,000,000 to spend for ordinary housekeeping needs and for other purposes.

The governor offers encouragement to business now by announcing his determination to expand and expedite public works and carry out the remainder of his program without increasing taxes.

If there is not hearty co-operation on the part of his legislative partners, it will not be due to lack of vigorous leadership by the governor or to tardiness on his part in submitting at the beginning of the session a program of specific things to be done.

In the leadership of a governor who does not merely talk about progressive policies but proceeds to carry them out, the state of New York sets a good example to her neighbors. For the times call for the leadership of action—a leadership that public sentiment will support and with which public sentiment will compel legislators to co-operate.

Preparing the Budget

Mayor Kline Will Win the Citizens' Gratitude If He Succeeds in Holding Down Expenses.

Mayor Kline is expected to submit to Council this week estimates of the cost of running the various departments of the city government next year.

The mayor has been studying during the last few weeks the proposed appropriations requested by the department heads, and is reported to have cut some of them heavily. The citizens will feel that that is a move in the right direction.

Assurance has been given that the tax rate will not be raised, and there is even a suggestion that it may be reduced slightly. This last is probably too good to be true. Even an infinitesimal reduction would be appreciated, if only as a gesture indicating that the administration understands how heavy the tax burden rests on property owners.

If the will is there, a way can be found to lessen the burden. There is unquestionably considerable slack that can be taken in through expenditures without sacrifice of anything really needed for good management.

Most of us find that when it is necessary we can do without many things without impairing our happiness. That is also true of cities.

The Apple Selling Plan

Pride, Foolish but Understandable, Probably Blocks Some from Accepting Opportunity.

The Apple Growers' Exchange has offered unemployed men in Pittsburgh an opportunity to sell apples at a profit of two and a half cents on each apple sold for five cents. Director Lyrk, of the Department of Public Safety, has offered to grant ...ers' licenses, free, for the sale of the apples. But the unemployed have not welcomed the plan.

The suspicion arises that the beggars who stroll the ...ts and the hundreds who are living on the bounty of the ...ing Hand Society and other charitable organizations find ...ore pleasant to continue to live that way than to earn ...y by selling apples.

In the case of some of Pittsburgh's other unemployed ... probably stands in the way. There are "white collar ..." who would rather starve than become street venders. ... would welcome the chance to sell apples behind the ...ter of some other man's store, but cannot bring them... to sell them in the streets as their own masters. Their ... is foolish but understandable.

They might consider that some of our most successful ...chants began their careers as peddlers. One great Pitts... concern was founded by a man who carried notions in ...ack on his back, and another by a man who peddled horse ...sh.

Riflemen's Season

The Need for Care Becomes Still More Important as Deer Hunters Take to the Woods.

The open season for small game in Pennsylvania ended Saturday, with a score of men killed and a hundred wounded in hunting accidents.

The season for deer hunting opened today. Shotguns are laid aside for the more deadly rifles.

The high-powered long range weapons used in shooting big game are a far more serious menace to safety in the woods than the guns used in hunting rabbits, squirrels and grouse. Hence the need for caution is far greater.

Nervous with "buck fever," some hunters are prone to blaze away recklessly at everything they see stirring in the brush. That is the cause of many mishaps.

The careful hunter will not shoot until he sees the buck clearly, and also has noted where the bullet will go if he misses.

Fifty-three persons were killed and 238 wounded in hunting accidents in Pennsylvania last year.

Let us pray that no such toll will be taken this year.

Opportunity Is Knocking -:- -:-

Someone's knocking at your door,
Knocking unmistakably,
Open to the summons clear—
It is Opportunity.

Opportunity to help

Opportunity to do
Your most charitable deed.

Everything Scrambled

Newest thing in trans-Atlantic radio is scrambled speech.

Prevents eavesdroppers from understanding you.

Also stymies the person who thinks you're talking to him.

Idea is not new. We've paid for static before.

It's the old telephone routine mixed with a cultivated bootleg accent.

If you listened in on scrambled speech, all you would hear is unintelligible gibberish. That's a dainty dish to set before a queen.

How would you like to harness yourself to earpieces and then hear these croks puzzloids:

"Play-o-fine—— Crink-a-nope."

He will translate it immediately and let the doctor arrive later.

If you have the right gadget in your eustachian tubes it will sound like:

"Telephone company."

But if you haven't you will go to your grave thinking it is Play-o-fine—— Crink-a-nope.

Do they mean to say that, just as we are getting normal and respected by all the neighbors who still talk to us, we have to reverse our gears and revert to the games of childhood?

Every time we look at our vest we realize that we are growing old gracefully. Then we pick up a telephone and somebody says:

"Play-o-fine—— Crink-a-nope."

Congress should pass a law forbidding farmers to waste dynamite blowing up stumps.

"Play-o-fine—— Crink-a-nope."

It is the magic words that will open the door to the Cave of the Forty Nuts. It is the abracadabra of the laughing factories and the cabalistic jargon that will transmute your crown from pure gold to a hat of paper.

Please pass the celery, we've got the salt.

A UNIVERSE MAKER

By Archibald Henderson

Not long ago, in introducing Professor Albert Einstein at a meeting at the Savoy Hotel in London, Bernard Shaw named eight men as makers of universes. Some of these, he confessed, were not really makers of universes; they were only repairers of universes. Conspicuous among the eight names was that of Pythagoras, who is not usually thought of as being in the class of world builders, to which Newton and Einstein belong. Is this choice really justified?

To the average person, memories of Pythagoras come back from schoolboy days. He is recalled only for having proved two geometrical propositions, which, it cannot be disputed, are certainly very useful. One is that the angle inscribed in a semicircle is always right angle. The other is the famous back-breaker, which was so hard to memorize: the square on the hypotenuse of a right-angled triangle is equal to the sum of the squares on the other two sides.

If this were the only contribution to science made by Pythagoras, he would be remembered in history, to be sure, but not as a builder or even repairer of the universe. However, it is now recognized that the second theorem above, which may be derived directly from the first, is a basic theorem in Euclidean geometry.

Indeed, it is as distinctively the criterion for flat space, or the Euclidean world of normal experience, as is the equally famous theorem that the sum of the angles of a triangle make up 180 degress. It was only when Riemann posited a new definition of the distance between or separation of two points, that there came into being the strange Riemannian geometries of today upon which Einstein so heavily relies.

Pythagoras was a philosopher and established a school or academy. His followers devoted much attention to geometry, and arrived at many interesting and valuable results.

In especial, they used geometrical representations of quantities, and derived the relations between them from the geometrical properties involved. One such interesting proof of geometry is that the product of the sum and differences of two quantities is the difference of their squares.

It was no mean achievement of the Pythagoreans to have discovered the five regular solids, and in particular to have learned how to construct the twelve-faced solid, given the radius of a circumscribed sphere. Knowledge was held both sacred and secret, in those days; it was not to be given to the world, but held inviolate as a secret of the particular order or school which made the discovery.

There is a tradition, how trustworthy we cannot say, that one of the members of the Pythagorean school, Hippasus, was drowned at sea for revealing the secret of the construction of the revered dodecahedron.

Plato likewise was imbued with reverence for this figure, which was believed to have a mystic significance.

In the Timaeus, where he presents an ingenious description of the building of the universe by pure mathematics, the sphere of the universe is generated from the dodecahedron by the faces falling out and making the solid spherical.

By the discovery of the proposition about the square of the hypothenuse, the Pythagoreans were brought face to face with the dilemma of irrational numbers and incommensurable lines. The diagonal of a square whose sides are one each, is incommensurable with either side. The Pythagoreans had built up the theory of proportions, for commensurable magnitudes only. When they barged, by accident, into incommensurables, they surrendered their entire theory of proportions as untenable. This was a premature step; for eventually Eudoxus formulated a definition applicable to all cases. Euclid reaped much of the credit due primarily to Pythagoras and his followers.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

You can't card file people. You can't say: "He's this kind of a person—or that kind of a person." We all are many kinds of persons, and we may do almost any kind of thing.

You never can tell what a person will do if you change his environment or alter the pressure upon him. Perhaps he'll go all to pieces . . . perhaps he'll suddenly become all of a piece. Whatever happens, he'll be different. That is, he'll seem different. Actually he won't be different at all. But new sides of his nature, which you never suspected—which, perhaps, he himself never suspected—will be revealed.

Most of our troubles with other people come because we are ignorant of this fact. We make up our minds that people are made in certain patterns, and we expect them to act in certain ways. We expect Alice to be sweet and patient because she has always been that way. We expect Tom to be dashing and clever. We expect Mr. Jones to be wise and well balanced. We expect young Mrs. Flip to be foolish and flirty and unreliable.

They look that way. We've seen them act that way. So we conclude they are that way. We card file them. And we're plenty proud of our ability to check them off. Then suddenly something happens and all our neat judgments go haywire.

Alice gets sick of being a Domestic Treasure and becomes snappy and irritable. Tom, faced with some crisis, becomes stupid and turns yellow. Mr. Jones makes a fool of himself. And Mrs. Flip becomes calm, resourceful, a pillar of strength!

I'm remembering something that happened after the big San Francisco earthquake. The people in the quake zone were short of food and the women in the neighboring towns rallied to their aid. Down in the Town Hall we were busy baking beans and boiling eggs, all of us church folk, side by side.

Suddenly into the hall walked a group of women we had never seen before. Pretty women, better dressed than the rest of us, but very friendly. We looked at them with suspicion and envy—they seemed so useless, those fine ladies. But they weren't.

Their soft, white hands were marvelously deft and their laughing banter warmed our heavy hearts. All afternoon we worked together. We did not know, until the men folk joined us, that they were the girls of our waterfront.

You can't card file people. You never can tell and you'd better not try. You're apt to hand yourself a razz if you do. Moreover, you'll miss a lot of fun. People are the greatest adventure on earth, if you'll treat them as such. Expect them to be one certain thing and they're bound to fail you. And you deserve to be failed.

But let them be themselves—all their selves—and trust them to be their finest, largest selves, and they'll be endlessly funny and beautiful, exciting and inspiring and comforting.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Time Speaks

To all the healing balms I hold the key,
To all the sleep's draughts, all fields where Lethe flows.
The Great Physician, I. You ask my fee . . .
Give me your cheeks' red rose!
Give me your hopes that make the future fair,
Give me your dreams of first love's long caress.
Give passion's fitful flames, delight, despair . . .
These buy forgetfulness.

Make your accounting with my clerks, the years.
And render each his portion of my due.
The Great Physician, I. Turn you from tears;
My peace will come to you!

Text For Today

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee.—Isaiah, xxvi: 3.

Back to All Fours

It Helps Spinal Trouble.

STUDYING FACE DOWN

This picture will interest intelligent mothers and educators. It shows a group of childen afflicted with spinal disease, studying in a British institution in accordance with the latest scientific ideas.

The children are made to lie at full length face downward, retaining this position during study, at meals and during play time.

The study is made as much like play as possible, since a cheerful child studies more efficiently than a child under fear of discipline.

In addition to lying at full length face downward, which strengthens the weak spines of these children, they are made to crawl about on all fours, as much as possible, instead of standing up and walking.

This also is good for spinal disease.

Those that dislike theories of evolution will resent the fact that this treatment of children, highly successful, is based on the assumption that we once went on all fours like our humble brothers. Then our spines, stretched horizontally above the earth, carried the load of the body suspended from it under even pressure. Our internal arrangement, stomach, intestines, heart, liver, stayed in their proper places held up by the ribs, and the strong muscles of the abdomen.

Standing erect as we do now, and have done more or less for the last million years, we take a position which is unnatural, one to which we shall grow accustomed after a few million more years. We are not accustomed to it yet. So says science.

At present, the spine that should be parallel with the ground sticks straight up, its joints get out of order, carry the weight of the body unnaturally. Often the spine is strained and "spinal curvature" results, caused by the child assuming a wrong position or by sudden accident or general weakness.

According to scientists, human beings lived on this earth in lower forms of life for hundreds of millions of years, gradually developing to what they are now, slowly through the ages, learning to stand erect on two legs, to look at the sky, contemplate the wonders of the universe, and look over the top of the high grass for enemies.

We gain spiritually, by that position, standing up straight. We also lost something in health. In this picture you see how science tries to help children with weak spines by putting them back on all fours as they were a million years ago in the persons of their remote ancestors.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Awake betimes trying to enjoy a snack in bed but, what with the two dogs yapping and gobbling at crumbs, impossible. This day shows debts all paid, God be praised, and so out and bought my mother-in-law a fur coat.

In the afternoon to the matinee "Three's a Crowd," so highly praised, but I thought extraordinarily dull save for a quip or so of Fred Allen's. Home to catch up with my labours, working exactly 28 minutes, and inspiring my wife to comment I was killing myself with toil.

The Keats Speeds for dinner. Thence to a play and afterward to Hugh and Sadie Murray's to a party for Marlyn Miller and a great crowd there. To bed early, but fell to reading the life story of the Bronte sisters and surprised to see the sun rise.

Fay King, the caricaturist, attended a swanky auto display recently and spent her time inspecting the bumpers. "The only part of a car that interests pedestrians," she explained.

Jack Pickford postcards the recent "tremble" in Hollywood did something for the management of the Hotel Roosevelt its combined force of house dicks couldn't do. It cleared the lobby of actors for 15 minutes.

Overheard in the Plattsburg, Mo., postoffice: "Yes, sir, she's black and white with a spot on her head as big as a dollar, dollar and a half or two dollars."

Then there is the comedian who thinks it must be terrible to be a Chinese woman. "Imagine turning on the light when your husband comes home," he says, "only to discover he is a Chinaman."

Personal nomination for the most perfect imitation of a hard-boiled lady—that of Kathleen Norris.

A bus of gentle faced nuns was traveling from New York to Rye. Along the way pedestrians would stop, stare and suppress a smile. It became so awkward a Mother Superior stepped out and looked the bus over. On the side in flaming red letters was a movie sign: "Hell's Angels!"

A gentleman I know, on a recent chilly night, was reading a shuddery novel called: "Murder Through a Window." And bundling up in blankets left his window open. A neighboring tenant arrived home after midnight and in passing shouted: "Boo!" The gentleman landed over the footboard at a single bound, and for the first time in an extremely religious life let go a blood-curdling oath.

They were discussing one of those omniscient Broadway party-crashers—the sort that seems to crawl out of the woodwork everywhere. "The only way to keep him out," said Bert Lahr, "is to use plenty of putty."

It is in passing through such a period just experienced that most of us sour on thrift. I for one can't be much of a Pollyanna about the virtues of saving. Indeed, along with many others I am beginning to believe there is folly in thrift. We slave, save, go to the best banks for advice and what happens! Ask anybody!

My philosophic pretenses from now on will be somewhat like that of the colored boy out our way. One day he was asked: "Boy, do you want to make a quarter?" He replied: "Nossah, I has a quatah!"

Too much stress has been placed upon the happiness and industry of the ant. I have never believed an ant had much fun. Its life is one of utter frustration—toiling to build up something a minute's shower or a careless shoe toe will destroy. The grasshopper lives the ideal live, jumping around with the ladies, spitting tobacco juice and playing tunes on his hind legs.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You visit the home of a well-to-do-friend.

You return home dissatisfied, thinking everything in it seems cheap. So you lose interest in the home that you can afford to possess. You blame luck for your few opportunities and your small income.

You dont' take a bit of the "blame," as you call it.

You argue that if only you had the chances that these friends of yours have enjoyed all these years, you too, might be comfortably situated.

Your visit had two bad effects upon you—you don't appreciate your own home and you have become sour because of what the fates have done to you.

At the time you purchased your home and its furniture, you were well pleased and felt proud of them.

Being the best you ever had and the sort you selected yourself, they looked good to you and you, then, had much joy in their possession.

Now that is all gone, and why?

Because you have lost your sense of relative values.

Because you want what you cannot honestly procure.

If you cannot enjoy your home for what it is now, certainly you should get comfort in the thought of what it meant to you in the beginning when you purchased it.
